These black and white photographs depict the University of Toronto campus and buildings mainly in 1940s. Included are unique images of houses along St George as well as several winter campus scenes, aerial and elevated views. They were collected by Eric Aldwinckle, who, although best known as a war artist, illustrated Morley Callaghan's book The Varsity Story, as well as several covers and inside drawings for the Varsity Graduate. The photographs in this collection may have been collected to support his work in this capacity.
