Biographical note

1947-Present

The Greater Toronto Chapter of the National Association of Japanese Canadians has its history stemming from the National Japanese Canadian Citizens Association (NJCCA). Founded in 1947 by Roger Obata and other nisei leaders, the NJCCA was the first national organization by Japanese Canadians. Japanese Canadians were still disenfranchised and facing injustice from the unlawful dispossession of the community. In April 1980, the NJCCA changed their name to the NAJC, though many chapters, including the Toronto chapter kept NJCCA in their name.

1977 marked the centennial of the first issei, Nagano Manzo, arriving in Canada. This large community celebration brought many Japanese Canadians together, and informal discussion of redress began. By the early 80s, friction between members in the Toronto JCCA began and stemmed from whether redress should include individual compensation, representing the huge loss of assets and work during the internment. Many members of the Toronto JCCA felt that the Toronto chapter was not representing the views of the majority, nor aligned with the NAJC on the national level. To protest this, members created the North York Chapter of the NAJC, which later would be renamed to the Greater Toronto NAJC, headed by Wes Fujiwara. Between 1983 and 1984, the nonpartisan group Sodan-Kai helped bring together and facilitate discussions between the Toronto JCCA and those who believed redress should include recognition of individual loss. In their efforts to seek redress, the NAJC had the Price Waterhouse Associates assess the loss endured by the Japanese Canadian community from the internment. This was calculated to income and property losses at not less than $443 million in 1986 dollar. The Greater Toronto NAJC organized and led many demonstrations demanding the Canadian government recognize their racist actions towards the Japanese Canadians and offer redress. These demonstrations include the Ottawa rally in April 1980 where many prominent members of the Japanese Canadian community met with Minister of State for Multiculturalism Gerry Weiner, opening up the discussion for redress.

On September 22, 1988, Prime Minister Brian Mulroney announces a Redress Settlement negotiated between the National Association of Japanese Canadians and the federal government. The Redress Settlement acknowledged injustices against Japanese Canadians during and after World War II, provide a payment of $21,000 to all Japanese Canadians affected by the provisions of the War Measures Act, expunge criminal records of those charged with offenses stemming from violation of provisions of the War Measures Act, re-instate citizenship of those exiled to Japan, establish a $12million community fund to help rebuild community infrastructure, and provide $24million to establish the Canadian Race Relations Foundation

Toronto became the Eastern Regional Office for the Redress Advisory and Assistance Committee, aiding field workers as they intern aided members of the Japanese Canadian community complete their redress forms. The Eastern Regional Office also worked with members of the community re-apply or appeal unsatisfactory decisions regarding their Redress applications.

After winning the battle for Redress, the Greater Toronto chapter of the NAJC continues to seek justice and support marginalized communities who have faced discrimination from the Canadian government and elsewhere.

Contains membership lists, meeting minutes and agendas from many of the committees the Toronto NAJC had, and participated in. Much of the material covers the period when the community organized and sought redress for the internment of Japanese Canadians during WWII. Records relating to and created by the Redress Advisory and Assistance Committee are also included.

Archival History: 47 boxes were donated to the Library in 2015 by Ron Shimizu, member of the Greater Toronto Chapter. Official transfer was not completed at this time, lacking a Deed of Gift. The material rested with the Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library until an Archivist was hired at the East Asian Library in 2022. Material was processed and was officially transferred by the 2023 President of the association, Lynn Deutscher Kobayashi. Some additional material was donated in 2022 as well, which was added to the original sum.

Arrangement: Material had begun to be processed by a student at the Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library in 2016 but was never completed. When processing began again in 2022, it was unclear who the custodian was and thus the material was numbered following the Thomas Fisher Rare Book system, where the unique identifier is the box and file number. Original order has attempted to be preserved. Material has been intellectually arranged to draw material with similar subjects or creators together, often not reflecting the physical arrangement. Titles, unless given in square brackets, have been taken from the original material / containers. The title Greater Toronto chapter of the NAJC, Greater Toronto NAJC, and Toronto NAJC is used interchangeably, with the first being the proper title of the organization. Processing of material had begun by a Graduate Student Library Assistant at the Fisher Rare Book Library, the original repository of the material. The majority of the arrangement and description was completed by the archivist at the East Asian Library once the material was transferred to their care. Please see full file level descriptions on Discover Archives.

Access: All researchers must complete a Research Agreement to access any material in this accession due to sensitive information held in many of the records. Sub-series "5.1 Rejected Applicant Case Files" and Sub-series "5.2 Redress Application Case Files" are closed for 100 years from creation. Copyright is held by the Greater Toronto Chapter of the National Association of Japanese Canadians. Absolutely no copies (photographs, scans, etc.) can be made, for personal use or otherwise, without explicit consent from the Greater Toronto Chapter of the National Association of Japanese Canadians.

Series 1: Toronto Chapter, Japanese Canadian Citizens Association

1972-1990

The Japanese Canadian Citizens Association (JCCA) formed in 1947 as the first national organization to represent Japanese Canadians across the country. This series contains records created by the Toronto Chapter of the JCCA. During the late 70s and into the 80s, the organization began to think and take action regarding Redress for the treatment of Japanese Canadians during WWII. Though the National level of the association changed its name in 1980, some chapters, including Toronto, continued to organize under the title of JCCA.

Records include meeting minutes, agendas, correspondence within and outside of the organization. The subject matter relates predominantly to Redress.

Series 2: National Association of Japanese Canadians

1978-2009

The national level of the organization representing Japanese Canadians. This organization originally formed under the title of Japanese Canadian Citizens Association, changing their name to NAJC in 1980. They are the primary organization in Canada representing the community.

Records created and collected by the National Association of Japanese Canadians. These records include meeting minutes of the executive committee, and other records created by other chapters across the country. Though there are some records that focus on the Redress movement, much of the series represent the work of the organization after the Redress agreement.

Series 3: Greater Toronto Chapter of the National Association of Japanese Canadians

1963-2008

The Greater Toronto Chapter of the NAJC in its present form began in 1984 with the formation of the North York chapter. At the time, the Toronto JCCA was the official chapter of the NAJC in Toronto. Members of the TJCCA were divided on what Redress should look like. As the chapter became divided, those who felt that the leaders of the TJCCA were acting without member consultation formed the North York chapter of the NAJC. Under the NAJC constitution, only one chapter could represent any geographic region, and since many of those unhappy with the TJCCA actions, they formed under the title of North York. At the time North York was still a separate city and had not been amalgamating into Toronto. Soon after this in 1985, members of the North York chapter received notice that they were being expelled from the Toronto JCCA Redress Committee. The TJCCA had not held an annual General Meeting for years, adding further discomfort to the situation. Many felt that the chapter was not acting democratically. The National council soon stopped recognizing the TJCCA as the representative body from Toronto, but instead the North York chapter. November, 1985 the NAJC passed a motion to formalize this action. This was reciprocated in January 1986 when the TJCCA announced they were splitting from the NAJC. By 1986, the North York chapter was able to use the title Greater Toronto chapter and officially represent the Japanese Canadian community in the GTA with the support of the NAJC on a national scale.

Series 3.1: NAJC Membership Files

1963-2000

File cards representing all the members of the Toronto JCCA and Greater Toronto NAJC from the 1960s to 2000.

Series 3.2: Operations

1976-2008

Records consist primarily of meeting minutes, agendas, and communication on upcoming events held by the chapter. Photographs reflect the many events the chapter helped organize or participated in. Financial records and board minutes are also present.

Series 4: Redress

1978-1998

On September 22, 1988, The Japanese Canadian Redress Agreement was announced. Action from within the NAJC, the Greater Toronto Chapter of the NAJC, and other groups all led up to this monumental agreement. Consultations with the community, rallies, and continuous pressure on the government brought the Redress movement to the forefront of Canadians.

Series 4.1: Ethnocultural Rally

1987

The Ethnocultural Rally was held October 29, 1987, and organized by the Ad Hoc Committee for Japanese Canadian Redress. The hope was that with the support of many ethnocultural groups, the recently stalled discussions of Redress could be re-visited. The Ethnocultural Rally was held at Harbord Collegiate, in Toronto. Representatives from 20 ethnocultural organizations attended and signed their support for the NAJC. This event helped strengthen the image of the NAJC as the unified voice of Japanese Canadians and their ongoing fight for Redress.

Documents include planning material for the rally and the final resolution, signed by the ethnocultural group leaders stating their support for the NAJC and the Redress movement.

Series 4.2: Ottawa Rally

1987-1998

The Ottawa Rally took place April 14, 1988. Prominent Canadians marched alongside Japanese Canadians at Parliament Hill, demanding Redress for the treatment of Japanese Canadians during WWII. The Greater Toronto chapter of the NAJC took on much of the planning for the event due to their proximity to Ottawa and the size of their chapter. Leading up to the event, postcards were distributed, collected, and then presented to Prime Minister Mulroney with the message "I am a voter. I support Japanese Canadian redress now!". This was accompanied by the Ribbons of Hope, a fundraising initiative where for $25, one could have their name printed on a ribbon and attached to a pole to be carried during the rally. These ribbons provided a strong visual presence for those who were unable to attend the rally but wanted to show their support. The marchers entered the West Block of the House of Commons, and began offering speeches. Newly appointed Minister of Multiculturalism Gerry Weiner also spoke, wishing to open discussion again between the government and the NAJC. Overall, the rally provided the community a sense of purpose, and reinvigorated their fight for Redress. It also reminded non-Japanese Canadians of the ongoing struggle for Redress.

Records consist of planning material for the rally itself and the Postcards of Hope. Some of the postcards themselves are included, as are protest signs. Donation forms, finances, and logistical information for the bus group coming from Toronto are also included.

Series 4.3: Sodan-Kai

1983-1984

Shin Imai, Maryka Omatsu, and Marcia Matsui formed the Sodan-Kai in 1983 as a non-partisan group in the hopes of bringing more community involvement to Redress. At the time, there was a friction in the Japanese Canadian community regarding the sought terms of Redress, particularly at the organizational level in Toronto. These three lawyers hoped that by creating a non-partisan space for members of the community, the community, as a whole, could come to an agreement on what Redress should look like.

Records include a flyer for one of their meetings, and newsletters.

Series 4.4: Redress Agreement

1978-1992

Redress was won through extensive effort from the Japanese Community and its supporters across the country. Though the Greater Toronto chapter of the NAJC played a pivotal role in Redress, it was a national accomplishment. The Redress Settlement was signed August 26, 1988 with NAJC President Art Miki and Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, with representatives on either side present. Much led up to this moment though, including various fundraising events, informational meetings, and protests.

Included are textual records and photographs of the various events and activities taken by the NAJC which were in efforts for Redress.

Series 4.5: Time to Celebrate

1988-1989

To celebrate the Redress Agreement, a victory celebration was held November 4, 1988 at the Harbour Castle Westin Hotel in Toronto. Members from all aspects and parts of the Japanese Canadian community were present. The celebration allowed many to look forward, and let go of the past since the wrongs inflicted to them were now recognized.

Program book for the event, planning material including receipts, and photographs are included.

Series 5: Redress Advisory and Assistance Committee

1988-1998

The Redress Advisory and Assistance Committee was created by the Redress Agreement to aid in the process of implementing Redress. Mass notarization events were held in preparation of Redress applications, regional offices were set up, and field workers were hired to better reach community members outside of city centers. Though Redress applications went to Ottawa, the Committee aided those whose applications were rejected, or needed additional interviews.

Series 5.1: Rejected Applicant Case Files [CLOSED]

1988-1995

Files from individuals whose Redress applications were rejected. Interview questionnaires, letters of appeal, and various forms from the Redress Advisory and Assistance Committee are included. Files are arranged by applicant name. Sub-series is restricted to protect personal information. Please contact the archivist for further information.

Series 5.2: Redress Application Case Files [CLOSED]

1988-1995

Files from individuals who's Redress applications were rejected or submitted with insufficient information. Interview questionnaires, letters of appeal, and various forms from the Redress Advisory and Assistance Committee are included. Files are arranged by applicant name. Sub-series is restricted to protect personal information. Please contact the archivist for further information.

Series 5.3: Operations

1988-1998

Toronto became the headquarters for the Eastern Regional Office of the Redress Advisory and Assistance Committee, and many prominent members of the Greater Toronto NAJC worked for the Committee. Setting up office, hiring field workers, communicating with representatives in Ottawa and planning for the implementation of the Redress Agreement is covered in this series.

Series 6: Newsletters

1981-2008

The newsletter for the Greater Toronto chapter of the NAJC and the NAJC helped communicate information to members of the community. Cultural events, and political leanings were expressed. Collected here are also copies of The New Canadian, and The Nikkei Times, the later working out of the office of the Greater Toronto NAJC later in its time.

Series 6.1: Editorial Papers

1986-1996

Layouts with notes from the editor and other staffers. Drafts of the newsletters.

Series 6.2: Publications

1986-2008

Publications of the NAJC Community News.

Series 6.3: Miscellaneous Periodicals & Publications

1981-1994

Various other publications from the Japanese Canadian community across Canada.

Series 6.4: Operations

1986-1997

Financial receipts from the printing and distribution of the newsletters. Lists of those who volunteered with the newsletter, and photographs of those who helped prep the mailing of them.

Series 7: Seniors

1987-2000

Records relating to Japanese Canadian senior groups and initiatives.

Series 7.1: Nipponia Home

1989-2000

Nipponia Home opened in 1958 as the first Japanese Canadian seniors home in Canada. The home was built in Beamsville Ontario, with funds from Yasutaro Yamaga, the Province of Ontario, and the Japanese Canadian Community. It operated until 2000, when it was closed.

Material includes financial records and textual documents created by the Nipponia Home Committee Operations. Photographs capture the image of the building itself, including its extension.

Series 7.2: Momiji Health Care Society

1987-1999

The Momiji Health Care Society began in 1978 as a non-profit organization for the Issei in Toronto. Originally a drop-in center with programming, it grew to become the Momiji Centre, opening in 1992. Today, it is home to many elderly Japanese Canadians and continues to provide programming to the senior community and beyond.

Records pertain primarily to the opening of the physical Momiji Centre. Donor lists, community needs survey, and photographs of the celebration are included.

Series 7.3: Nipponia Home

1988-1994

Primarily consists of records from the first seniors conference titled "The Best Years", held to bring together seniors of the Japanese Canadian community after Redress.

Records consist primarily of communication on planning the conference and financial records.

Series 8: Dinner and Banquets

1982-2003

Material and records created for and from the various celebratory dinners and gatherings organized by the NAJC.

Series 8.1: 40th Anniversary Celebration Dinner of the NJCCA/NAJC

1986-1987

Held November 14, 1987 at the Skyline Triumph Hotel in North York. The dinner celebrated the 40th anniversary of the formation of the NJCCA, which later changed its name to the NAJC.

Material consists of photographs for the event, the program book, and some promotional material.

Series 8.2: A Tribute to Roger Obata

1990-1991

Roger Obata, C.M. (1915-2002) was the first president of the NJCCA and a continuous supporter of the struggle for Redress. He dedicated his life to seeking justice, for both Japanese Canadians and others. A banquet was held in his honor, celebrating his life and human rights endeavors. The banquet was held October 7, 1990 at the Prince Hotel in North York.

The series includes planning material for the banquet, photographs of the event and its attendees, and video footage of the entertainment. Decorations have also been preserved.

Series 8.3: Senpo Sugihara Tribute Dinner

1993

Senpo [Sempo] Sugihara (1900-1986) was a Japanese diplomat in Lithuania during WWII, who issued visas against orders, to refugees allowing them to travel to Japan and escape the holocaust. A tribute dinner was hosted by the Canadian Jewish Congress and the Greater Toronto Chapter of the NAJC, welcoming his wife Yukiko Sugihara, son Hiroki Sugihara, and daughter-in-law. The family visited Toronto and Southern Ontario in November 1993 and were hosted by the NAJC and the Canadian Jewish Congress.

Textual material includes the program book, and organizational records from the funding of the event. Photographs are from the NAJC touring the Sugihara family around Toronto to see popular tourist sights. Video tapes are recordings from Rogers Cable which covered the event.

Series 8.4: Banquet '92

1991-1993

The Banquet held September 11, 1992 at Ontario Place, was to celebrate the many volunteers of the Greater Toronto NAJC, while also acting as a fundraiser for the chapter. Guest speakers included Minister of Multiculturalism and Citizenship Gerry Weiner, Consul-general Katsuyuki Tanaka, and Premier of Ontario Bob Rae.

The sub-series includes program books for the event, raffle information, financial records, planning material, and many photographs of those who attended.

Series 8.5: Homecoming '92

1982, 1991-1992

Home Coming '92 was a conference held by the NAJC in Vancouver, BC. The event focused on the experiences of Japanese Canadians during internment, especially the Nisei.

Records include agendas and minutes from planning the event, travel information, and records from events attended by members of the Greater Toronto NAJC around this conference.

Series 8.6: Towards Inclusion: Maryka Omatsu

1992-1993

In 1993, Maryka Omatsu was the first woman of East Asian descent to be appointed a judge in Canada. The National Action Committee on the Status of Women (NAJC), the Canadian Ethnocultural Council, and various other groups sponsored a banquet to honor Omatsu on her momentous occasion. The dinner was held June 22, 1993 at the Chinatown International Restaurant in Toronto. Omatsu is an important figure in the NAJC, as she was a negotiator and legal counsel for them during the struggle for Redress.

Records include planning material, attendance lists, and financial records.

Series 8.7: Misc. Events & Parties

1987-2003

Various events hosted by or supported by the Greater Toronto NAJC. Events include book launches, dramatic performances, volunteer appreciation parties, dinners and banquets, and traveling to visit historic sites.

Sub-series consists primarily of photographs and textual material.

Series 9: Conferences

1989-2002

Conferences held by or attended by the NAJC.

Series 9.1: Educator's Conference

1989-1993

The NAJC hosted an Educator's conference in 1990 and 1992, with the goal to include more Japanese Canadian history in the Canadian curriculum.

Records include planning for the conference, expenses, hotel information, and suggested educational material.

Series 9.2: Pan American Nikkei Conference

1989, 1993

The Pan American Nikkei conference is organized by the Pan American Nikkei Association, and is a place for Nikkei from across both North and South America to gather and discuss common issues.

Records are mostly from the 1993 conference which was held in Vancouver. In 1989, the conference was held in Los Angeles, USA. Material included are conference program books and invitations to attend.

Series 9.3: 5 Generations

1996-2002

Created in partnership with the Royal Ontario Museum and the Multicultural History Society of Ontario, the 5 Generations exhibition tells the story of Japanese Canadians in Canada.

Records mostly come from Harry Yonekura and his involvement with the exhibition.

Series 10: Toronto Redress Story

1996-2002

The book was written by the Ad Hoc Committee for Japanese Canadian Redress: The Toronto Story, part of the Greater Toronto NAJC. The story covers how the Greater Toronto chapter played a pivotal role in the Redress settlement.

Material includes transcripts from interviews with prominent members of the community who were part of the Redress effort, draft manuscripts with edits, progress reports, agendas and minutes, and financial records.

Series 11: Friendship House

1988-2007

The Friendship House was at 382 Harbour St., in Toronto. It was the headquarters of the Greater Toronto NAJC, and the Nikkei Voice. The space acted as a community hub, offering a place for social events, chapter meetings, celebrations, and parties.

Series 11.1: Friendship House Building

1988-2007

The building was purchased and heavily renovated in 1993, with grant funds from the Japanese Canadian Redress Foundation and extensive fundraising.

The records visually document the extensive renovations the building undertook, and many of the events held within. Textual material includes financial records, agendas and minutes from the building committee, property reports from other possible locations, records created for daily upkeep of the building.

Series 11.2: New Moon

1994-1996

The Friendship House was located close to Central Toronto Academy, which was then called Central Commerce Collegiate Institute. The Greater Toronto Chapter of the NAJC often had negative encounters with students from the high school. In hopes to build a better relationship with these students, they organized the New Moon project, which had students from the high school work with members of the Japanese Canadian artist community to paint a mural.

The sub-series is composed primarily of photographs and slides documenting the painting process and the final mural. Some textual material from planning the collaboration is included.

Series 11.3: Library

1988-1998

The Greater Toronto NAJC maintained a lending library at the Friendship House, and a small stock of print books for purchase.

Records include stock lists of the books and other material available for purchase, the inventory of the lending library, and some of the material itself, including VHS cassettes.

Series 12: Earth Spirit Festival

1988-1998

The Earth Spirit Festival was held July 5-7, 1991 and then July 9-11 1993, both at Harbourfront Center. The festival began as a celebration of cultural heritage between Japanese Canadians and Indigenous peoples, but later grew to include Ainu and Chinese Canadians. The free event included art exhibitions, theatrical performances, concerts, and food vendors.

Records include planning material such as agendas, minutes, and communications. Published material promoting the event, photographs covering the concerts, and financial records are included.

Series 13: Face Kao

1990-1991, 1996

The photography book, Face - Kao: Portraits of Japanese Canadians Interned During WW II (1996) covers stories from survivors of internment and the enduring legacy of the event. By Andrew Danson.

The series contains audio cassettes from the interviews he had with the subjects of the book and other from the community. A copy of the book is included.

Series 14: Internment

1986

Copies of documents and slides from the period of Japanese Canadian internment.

Series 15: External Associations

1977-1999

Various textual records from other Japanese Canadian organizations, including the Japan Foundation and the Japanese Canadian Cultural Centre. Newsletters, communications, and agendas for meetings are included.

Series 16: Harry Yonekura

1996-2003

Harry Yonekura was a long-standing member of the NAJC and one of the original members of the Greater Toronto Chapter. He has been active in many of the activities and actions the chapter took on, including writing a chapter for Japanese Canadian Redress: The Toronto Story, participating in the 5 Generations exhibition, and taking lead on the various education conferences. Many of the records in this fonds are from his files.

The records collected in this series are those that were created by Yonekura about himself or were made for him. Most of the records are about his time with the Nisei Mass Evacuation Group.

Series 17: Canadian Communities

1988-1996

After Redress, the NAJC continued to fight for human rights across Canada, supporting other ethnocultural communities and groups. Records are primarily newsletters from other cultural organizations, and communications with these groups.

Series 18: Art Miki

1993-1994

Art Miki, president of the NAJC during the Redress movement, ran for the Liberal Party of Canada in the 1993 federal election in the Winnipeg—Transcona riding. The records are from his campaign, and are primarily related to donations.

Series 19: Japanese Canadian Redress Foundation

1988-2001

Part of the redress Agreement was the $12 million allotted for a community fund. To administer the fund, the Japanese Canadian Redress Foundation was created. These funds have supported grants for community groups, scholarships, individuals, and institutions.

Records include agenda and minutes from the foundation, proposals for projects, and documents from the creation of various smaller funds like the Sports, Education and Arts Program and the Cultural Development Fund.

Series 20: Human Rights

1987-2014

Records from the Human Rights Committee and the Canadian Race Relations foundation.

Series 21: Miscellaneous

1977-2003

Various records.
