Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Henri Nouwen was born in Nijkerk, The Netherlands to Maria (nee Ramselaar) and Laurent Nouwen on January 24, 1932, the eldest of four children. He was ordained to the Catholic priesthood on July 21, 1957 for the diocese of Utrecht. Immediately following his ordination, Nouwen began studying psychology at the Catholic University of Nijmegen completing a doctorandus degree cum laude in 1964 (February 3rd, 1964 in Psychology; primary subject: psychology of religion, secondary subjects: sociology, social geography).

Following his studies in psychology Nouwen became a Fellow in the program for Religion and Psychiatry at the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kansas from 1964-1966. During this year he participated in Martin Luther King's civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama. Following his studies at the Menninger, Nouwen was invited to join the newly formed Faculty of Psychology at Notre Dame University where he taught for two years.

In 1968 he returned to the Netherlands to take positions as Staff member of the Amsterdam Joint Pastoral Institute and member of the faculty of the Catholic Theological Institute in Utrecht. From 1970-1971 Nouwen pursued an advanced degree in theology at the University of Nijmegen, focusing on the work on Anton T. Boisen. A doctorandus degree was received in 1971. After completing his theology degree he accepted a position in the Yale Divinity School. For ten years (1971-1981), he taught such courses as Christian Spirituality, Pastoral Care and Counselling, Life and Work of Thomas Merton, Ministry and Spirituality, Ministry of Vincent van Gogh and Ministry to the Elderly. He spent one semester in Rome teaching at the North American College in 1978 and became a fellow at the Ecumenical Institute at Collegeville, Minnesota.

In 1981 he resigned from his tenured position to work with the Maryknoll brothers in Peru as well as visiting Bolivia and Nicaragua. In addition to exploring his vocation in Latin America, Nouwen explored the possibility of joining several different Christian communities, with extended stays at the Abbey of the Genesee in 1979 and 1982. In 1983, following a speaking tour about Nicaragua, he accepted a Lentz Lectureship at Harvard Divinity School, a position he held until his resignation in 1985. He went on to teach a summer course at Boston College and later to L'Arche Trosly-Breuil in France at the invitation of Jean Vanier, the founder of L'Arche (a network of more than 100 communities where people with developmental disabilities live in homes with assistants).

In 1986 he accepted the position of pastor as L'Arche Daybreak in Richmond Hill, Ontario. In addition to his duties as pastor, Nouwen co-taught with Daybreak members at Regis College, Toronto a course entitled "Communion, Community and Ministry" in 1994, the last course he would teach at a university.

In addition to teaching Nouwen was a prolific writer, authoring more than 40 books and hundreds of articles related to the Christian spiritual life including contemplative spirituality, prayer, the desert mothers and fathers, icons, ministry, theological education, peacemaking, prayer, death and the trapeze. A selection of his titles include The Wounded Healer, Reaching Out, Genesee Diary and The Return of the Prodigal Son. He was a sought-after speaker and travelled extensively to address participants at retreats, convocations, conferences and other public events.

Nouwen died on September 21, 1996 while visiting family in Holland.

Custodial history

The material was received by the Kelly Library in 2000 as two accessions. The first contained the records originally housed at the Yale Divinity School Library, an archives set up and contributed to annually by Nouwen from 1975 until his death in 1996. The second accession consisted of material created and accumulated by Nouwen at L'Arche Daybreak that he did not send to Yale Divinity School. This accession also consisted of material collected after his death and as such is now located with the Research Collection.

Series F4-1: Manuscripts

Date: 1957-1996 (creation)

Scope and content: Series consists of draft manuscripts and typescripts of more than 150 books and articles, forewords and introductions, sermons, and talks by Henri Nouwen. The date range of the materials is from 1956 to 1996. The series contains drafts of 49 of his articles and drafts of 41 books (Nouwen published over 300 articles and 39 books in his lifetime). In addition to handwritten drafts or typescripts some files may also include loose notes (usually background reading notes), galley and print proofs, administrative papers, correspondence regarding the materials, and photographs and artwork used in the process of publication.

The materials in the Series reflect Nouwen's general writing process: for the most part he hand-wrote his works on foolscap or in hard-back journals, often he created reading notes pertaining to the subject he was writing on, drafts were typed by an administrative assistant and then circulated to friends and other readers for comment. He saved all of the drafts, often incorporating the notes made by himself and other readers, in order to create one final work.

Common themes present in the drafts include: spirituality, love, God, psychology, theology, relationships, prayer, ministry, and Christian life. Nouwen often reflected on his own spiritual journey and experiences in his works in journal form. This writing was often deeply personal and it is for this reason that some of the manuscripts and drafts are restricted from use, including Man at the Watershed, A Spiritual Journey, Taken, Blessed, Broken, Given (parts of which were published in Life of the Beloved), The Inner Voice of Love, Adam, and Sabbatical Journey.

With exception of the sermons, most material has been published. Eight transcripts have been identified as unpublished, including a book on Anton T. Boisen based on Nouwen's doctoral thesis, a draft of a work about Nouwen's friend Richard Alan White, and notes for a book Nouwen began in 1991 regarding the trapeze and the spiritual life as well as some of the restricted material listed above. See file descriptions for more information on each work.

The series has been arranged into two sub-series:

1. Books and articles
1. 2. Talks and sermons

Each of these sub-series has sub-sub-series, files, and items. They have been arranged chronologically.

Physical description: 5.75 m of textual records.- 88 photographs

This paper is a reflection based on the life of Jesus. Nouwen argues that Jesus wants us to be inspired by the Holy Spirit to believe all his teaching about the Father, the Spirit, and Himself. Not only does believing help us in our lives, but it also brings immense joy to the Father. Believers find brothers and sisters in other believers. Themes include Jesus, the spiritual life and faith. It is not known if this paper has been published. Annotations on drafts (6) and (7) indicate that Connie Ellis, Nouwen's administrative assistant, typed the manuscript on June 10, 1988.

Nouwen ends by exhorting that love be the witness for the redemption of the world.

Part II of this talk is entitled, "Eschatological Perspective of the Birth of Christ." Nouwen summarizes prophecies, rather than personal experience, so as to link the person with the promise. Part III is entitled, "The Cultus-Perspective of the Birth of Christ", in which Nouwen finally explains that the birth in the gospel story is between the stories of Zachariah in the temple and the story of the Presentation in the temple. He concludes that the birth of Christ may also have been seen as a temple event.

The minister's final task is to announce that God loves us beyond what we can ever perform. Thus we can laugh at our weakness.

He talks about Lent, Palm Sunday and the spirituality of suffering.
F4-1-2-153-14	Item - On silence March 1972 3 p. of textual records Note [General] : Found on pages 86-88. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "On Silence", a sermon given by Nouwen on March 2, 1972. Nouwen suggests that silence is painful and we run from it, but we will not find God in the noise because God's is a still, small voice that Jesus heard on the mountain early in the morning. F4-1-2-153-16	Item - About Zaccheus, who climbed the sycamore tree [between 1971 and 1975] 4 p. of textual records Note [General] : Draft contains annotations on verso of page 64. Henri comments on the way we meet people but we are full of ideas, worries and tensions, or we wait to impress the other, or we listen to see if we agree or disagree. Without concentrating on the person, without having room in ourselves to receive the person and what is being said, we miss the opportunity for a real meeting.

F4-1-2-153-17	Item - Advent December 1971 3 p. of textual records Note [General] : Draft contains annotation: "File: Sermons" (top, centre), and other annotations by Nouwen. Found on pages 95-97. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "Advent", a sermon given by Nouwen on December 15, 1971. Nouwen argues that in Advent we know that God is not going to come on Christmas. We expect God in lightning and disaster. But perhaps Advent is waiting and preparing for the God who speaks to us in the gentle breeze. Advent is waiting, but it is also to know that we are waited for. Nouwen recounts the story of the prisoner of war who, at the point of giving up, receives a note from his wife saying they were waiting for him to come home. It changed everything for him. We have received a letter (the Scriptures), and we know God waits for us as we wait for God.

Nouwen argues that we cannot protest violence with violence, and that is what makes it hard. The expression of our sadness will hopefully lead to repentance, and repentance to compassion, and compassion to peace. We must receive peace as a gift, knowing the elements of violence within ourselves, and growing in compassion for our friends and enemies alike.

Some of these ideas may have been published in "Reaching Out" (1975).

He concludes that gratitude, however, influences the theological and spiritual formation of the priest for tomorrow.

Nouwen argues for the discipline to convert loneliness to solitude, and solitude to community.
F4-1-2-159-1-09	Item - Be still and know that I am God November 1979 6 p. of textual records Note [General] : Previous item number: 69-457A-7. Found on pages 27-32. Scope and content: Item consists of two drafts of typescripts for a meditation on Psalm 46:10 ("Be still and know that I am God"), given on November 7, 1979. Nouwen speaks about letting ourselves trust and find the stillness that allows God to meet us, to pray in us, to find us. He describes stillness, knowledge that goes beyond intellect, and the love of the God that we believe in and trust. The first draft is written in point-form; the second is likely written as it was spoken.
F4-1-2-159-1-10	Item - The silence of God 1980 4 p. of textual records Note [General] : Found on pages 33-36. Scope and content: Item consists of two draft typescripts of "The Silence of God", a Lenten meditation regarding Jesus before the Sanhedrin, Pilate and Herod. Nouwen argues that as Jesus stands before his accusers he is silent, not out of disdain or arrogance, but because those asking him to perform are doing so from curiosity and sensationalism. Nouwen suggests that Jesus only speaks when we come with a real desire to know him and receive his word into our hearts. This is one meditation in a Lenten series given by Nouwen at Battell Chapel in 1980.

Found on pages 54-58. Scope and content:  Item consists of a typescript of "Intimacy and Solitude", a lecture given by Nouwen at Fordham University. He gives solitude and community as the two disciplines necessary to find intimacy, first with God and then with others.

Nouwen concentrates on God's suffering in our hearts and to bring there our suffering and the suffering of the world. He says "take things to heart".

F4-1-2-159-1-19	Item - Thomas Merton celebration December 1978 16 p. of textual records Note [General] : Draft contains annotation: "triple space rough draft David" (p. 80; top, centre. Nouwen comments on Merton's idea that there are two illusions that deceive us: that we can know ourselves, and that we can know God. Instead, Nouwen argues that we are called to be seers, contemplatives. As the illusions are unmasked, we are free and open to see the newness and surprise of God and then we are willing to help hasten the coming of the day of the Lord. To do so we need to practice repentance and gratitude.

Nouwen begins by saying how slow Ecumenism has been progressing. He goes on to recognize that generally society is much farther ahead than ten years ago because worship is happening around the same table. He says the Eucharist (the table) is the centre that brings us closer to God and to each other.
F4-1-2-159-1-22	Item - The person of the preacher January 1979 6 p. of textual records Note [General] : Draft contains annotation: "Lecture note file" (top, right corner). Nouwen argues that the preacher not only preaches from the pulpit, but also by the way (s)he lives. The preacher must listen and be obedient to the Word of God and to the word of the people. Thus the preacher becomes available, lays down his/her life for the people of God.

F4-1-2-159-1-25	Item - Brothers and sisters in Christ      August 1979      3 p. of textual records Note [General] : Draft contains annotations by Nouwen. Found on pages 116-118. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "Brothers and Sisters in Christ", a sermon given at the Abbey of the Genesee on August 12, 1979 (Nouwen stayed at the Abbey of the Genesee for six months in 1979). Nouwen speaks of monastic life as a sign to the world that the eternal is in the temporal and that the monks sent will be a sign of that in Brazil. He argues that we are nurturing the eternal in the temporal.
F4-1-2-159-1-26	Item - Sermon for opening of monasticism and the Arts conference      February 1980      3 p. of textual records Note [General] : Title based on contents of the item. Draft contains annotations by Nouwen. Found on pages 119-121. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of a sermon given at the opening of the Monasticism and the Arts Conference on February 29, 1980. It is based on Philippians 3:20-21 and 6-8, and Mark 8:22-26. Nouwen wants us to recognize, like the monks Anthony and Benedict, that we are blind and in need of healing. We look at art hoping to see the face of God in the expression of those who gave their talents in art, music, architecture to reflect a vision beyond what we see.
F4-1-2-159-1-27	Item - Sermon for Easter Sunday      April 1979      3 p. of textual records Note [General] : Title based on contents of the item. Draft contains annotation: "File: Sermons" (top, right corner). Draft contains annotations by Nouwen. Found on pages 122-124. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript for an Easter Sunday sermon (April 15, 1979). Nouwen lists events that happened after the resurrection when Jesus revealed himself so that gradually people began to speak, "He is risen." They saw him. They believed. He was with them. Nouwen argues that we are invited to look for Him, to see his face, and to announce also, "He is risen."

Nouwen speaks of the Christ event as being not just a historical event, but also a present event. It happened and it is always happening. By realizing this, we look at all the things that preoccupy us in a new light - the light of the Christ event in the past and in the present.
F4-1-2-159-1-29	Item - Some Greeks [between 1977 and 1979] 3 p. of textual records Note [General] : Draft contains annotation: "File: Sermon" (top, left corner). Draft contains annotations by Nouwen. Found on pages 127-129. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "Some Greeks", a sermon on John 12:20-37. In this sermon Nouwen explains that Jesus did not want to be popular, exclaiming, "If people want to see me or know me, it means they want that knowledge to make a difference in their lives". So when the Greeks ask to see him, he talks about the seed going into the ground and dying. Nouwen concludes that "if we want to know Jesus we must be prepared to follow him there".
F4-1-2-159-1-30	Item - Sermon on downward mobility for Yale Divinity School [between 1977 and 1979] 3 p. of textual records Note [General] : Title based on contents of the item. Draft contains annotation: "Sermon: Y.D.S." (top, centre). Found on pages 130-131. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript for a sermon on downward mobility. Nouwen comments on the busyness at Yale University. Though Nouwen does not use the term 'downward mobility', he says that we live in an exciting world as we prepare and do ministry. Nouwen asks whether the excitement leads us to a deeper understanding and closeness to God, or whether it is a distraction. He invites the students to help each other to create the climate where they can confess the contradictions and help each other to find good disciplines, like Jesus.
F4-1-2-159-1-31	Item - Sermon on gezin and kinderen [between 1976 and 1981] 4 p. of textual records Note [General] : Title based on contents of the item. Draft contains annotation: "File: Sermon" (top, centre). Draft is in Dutch. Found on pages 132-133. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript for a sermon on Gezin and Kinderen.

F4-1-2-159-1-32	Item - Sermon on joy [between 1976 and 1981] 5 p. of textual records Note [General] :            Title based on contents of the item.            Found on pages 134-138.  Scope and content:            Item consists of a manuscript of a sermon on joy, suffering and death. Nouwen argues that the world wants us to believe that suffering and joy are separate and that there is more suffering than joy. He says that God did not make death, that Jesus' life is announcing that death no longer has power over him. Jesus came to announce the Good News, a kingdom of peace and joy. He concludes that it is a mystery but it is true.
F4-1-2-159-1-33	Item - May His joy be in you and may your joy be complete [1979?] 2 p. of textual records Note [General] :            Draft contains annotation: "File: Sermons" (top, centre).            Found on page 139.  Scope and content:            Item consists of a typescript of "May His joy be in you and may your joy be complete", a sermon on joy, the priesthood and the Eucharist, which was written for the 40th anniversary of Fr. Thomas' ordination at the Abbey of the Genesee (Piffard, NY). Nouwen finds joy in the realization that all the suffering, all the success, and all the failure of a life are already taken up in the Eucharistic sacrifice, and thus we can experience the joy of our salvation.
F4-1-2-159-1-34	Item - Sermon on Mark 14:32-42 [1979?] 13 p. of textual records Note [General] :            Title based on contents of the item.            See: Special Collection - Materials by Nouwen, box 1, Item SP193, for typed transcript of this sermon.            Found on pages 140-152.  Scope and content:            Item consists of a manuscript and partial typescript for a sermon on Mark 14:32-42, the story of Gethsemane. Nouwen advises us to simply go to the Garden and stay there with Jesus. He tells us not to sleep in His or our sorrow, but to stay awake and have no words to speak, but simply to stay. In so doing we see Jesus suffering but we also witness his fear, his request to have it taken away and his resignation to God's will, his faithfulness. Nouwen ends with the prayer of Thomas Merton, "Lord we have no idea where we are going."
F4-1-2-159-1-35	Item - Sermon for Ash Wednesday [between 1977 and 1981] 5 p. of textual records Note [General] :            Title based on contents of the item.            Found on pages 153-157.  Scope and content:            Item consists of handwritten notes and typescript of a sermon for Ash Wednesday. Nouwen argues that entering into Lent is seeing once again the sorrow and the anger of God who yearns to gather us as a hen her brood, but we refuse. He invites us to enter again into the knowledge that God cannot love us unless we let God, and so we put ashes on our foreheads and again say, "We cannot live without you, God". File includes a page of notes in an unknown hand entitled, "The Crucifixion".

F4-1-2-159-1-40	Item - A contemporary monastic experience  Note [General] : Title based on contents of the item. Draft contains annotation: "Honesty / nature of SpD (tedium); how coping with boredom" (top, left corner) Found on pages 173-177.  Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "A Contemporary Monastic Experience", a talk given on Holy Thursday. Nouwen describes the death and resurrection of Jesus, not so much as an event that happened in the past, but as the Christ event that is being realized in us in the unfolding liturgical year. Living the liturgical year in the monastery allows one to 'live' the event without as many illusions about God or self, primarily because of the desert-like quality of monastic life.	[between 1977 and 1981]	5 p. of textual records

F4-1-2-159-1-41	Item - Pastoral care and spirituality Note [General] : Draft contains annotations by Nouwen. Found on pages 178-189. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "Pastoral Care and Spirituality", a talk on being a caregiver and caring. Nouwen is bringing together spirituality with clinical pastoral education for ministers who are to be carers. He outlines aspects of care as: sharing the suffering of others as opposed to trying to take it away, connecting the pain with the depth of human brokenness and thus deepening the pain, allowing the other to learn about care and become a carer, and doing all this in the context of a praying community.	[between 1977 and 1981]	12 p. of textual records
F4-1-2-159-1-42	Item - Spirituality and clinical pastoral education Note [General] : Found on pages 190-193. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "Spirituality and Clinical Pastoral Education", a talk in which Nouwen describes clinical pastoral education and spiritual formation in the spirituality of care. He takes consolation as one of the most important modalities of care, and talks about consolation as the creation of a climate where sorrow can be mobilized and as a way to deepen human sorrow to the level where it can be shared. Real consolation is not to take people away from their pain, but to create a climate where pain can be shared. Care means to cry out with. Care also means to go even deeper, to what Nouwen calls the basic human melancholy that artists and musicians connect us with.	[between 1977 and 1981]	4 p. of textual records
F4-1-2-159-1-43	Item - Powhatan revisited Note [General] : Found on pages 194-203. Copy of draft is available in file. Item is annotated on the first page by Nouwen: "Only for personal use" and "Not for publication". Scope and content: Item consists of a photocopy of a typescript of "Powhatan Revisited", a paper Nouwen wrote about a visit he made to Powhatan, LA, a former parish where he worked for six months in 1962. F4-1-2-159-1-44	Item - Prayer and ministry Note [General] : Found on pages 204-208. Date based on date of Item 143-01. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "Prayer and Ministry", a sermon Nouwen gave on Luke 9:28-36. It is a commentary on the Transfiguration passage, when the disciples go with Jesus to the mountain to pray and Jesus is transfigured. Prayer is seen as an affirmation of the gift of life, not to be controlled but to be received and shared. Nouwen argues that when this happens we see our life and the world not as something dark, but more in the light; not opaque, but transparent.	1976	5 p. of textual records

F4-1-2-159-1-45	Item - Compassion in ministry and medicine Note [General] : Found on pages 209-212. Scope and content: Item consists of a manuscript of "Compassion in Ministry and Medicine", a talk Nouwen gave to medical staff. Nouwen talks about care as the basis of cure, because we are together in our humanity. Concretely, care is listening to the questions; responding to the questions more as another human being rather than as an authority, and doing all this with a deep self-knowledge, especially of our own mortality.	[between 1976 and 1981]	4 p. of textual records
F4-1-2-159-1-46	Item - Prayer and ministry Note [General] : Found on pages 213-214. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "Prayer and Ministry", a sermon on the idea of theoria physica developed by the desert fathers. Nouwen explains that we need to see nature and time with new eyes; as gifts not to be taken, but to be received and appreciated. The discipline of prayer, giving time to God, looking with the heart, and being obedient, (Prakticos), leads us into the new way of seeing.	[between 1976 and 1981]	2 p. of textual records
F4-1-2-159-1-47	Item - On prayer Note [General] : Found on pages 215-217. Scope and content: Item consists of a typescript of "On Mercy", a sermon given by Nouwen at Mercy Center (Madison, CT), in which he describes prayer as seeing what cannot otherwise be seen, especially in nature, in events, and in people. All of these are opaque unless we do not expect to see more, but within each of these the face of God may become visible. Prayer is also a discipline where we take time to listen and therefore leave behind our illusions of control, where we allow God to move from our heads to our hearts, and where we listen rather than speak to God.	[between 1976 and 1981]	3 p. of textual records
F4-1-2-159-1-48	Item - Sermon to supervising ministers Note [General] : Title based on contents of the item. Found on pages 218-220. Scope and content: Item consists of handwritten notes and a typescript of a talk on supervising ministers given by Nouwen at the Berkeley Center on October 18, 1977. Nouwen argues that supervising ministers make life more transparent for students by interpreting nature, events, and people with a vision of how things really are. But supervisors can only do this when they themselves are moving from opaqueness to transparency. Nouwen talks about the importance of the spiritual life of the supervisor. Nouwen compares the vocation of teaching religion to Jesus who joined the apostles on the road to Emmaus. Nouwen argues that Jesus created space for a real encounter. He gave them the truth. Nouwen concludes that all teaching leads us deeper into a relationship with God.

Our needs and wounds can only be a source of our ministry when they have been acknowledged and given appropriate attention. When we would minister to others out of our needs and wounds, we would do harm to them. It is very important for us that we recognize how our needs and wounds can be a great source of our suffering and call us to an ever fuller surrender to God's first love, the love than can fulfill all our needs and heal all our wounds. As long as our needs are raw needs and our wounds are open wounds, we will inflict wounds on others and create needs in others without realizing it."
