Biographical note

Dr. Ian MacDougall Hacking (18 February 1936 – 10 May 2023) was a white analytic philosopher whose work drew from multiple disciplines, including the history of science, statistics, physics, and psychology. Recognized as an influential contemporary thinker, Dr. Hacking is noted for his examination of the relationships between the physical and social sciences.

Raised in Vancouver, British Columbia, Hacking received his B.A. in Physics and Mathematics (1956) from the University of British Columbia. He later became a student at the University of Cambridge's Trinity College, studying moral sciences. Here, he received a BA (1958), followed by an M.A. and PhD (1962). Between the 1960s and early 1980s, Hacking held academic teaching positions at universities internationally. These included his alma maters, the University of British Columbia (1964-1967) and the University of Cambridge (1969-1974), as well Princeton University (1961-1962), Makerere University College in Uganda (1967-1969), Stanford University (1975-1982), and Germany's Bielefeld University (1982-1983).

In 1982, Hacking accepted a position at the University of Toronto Institute for the History and Philosophy of Science and Technology and, in 1991, was awarded the title of University Professor. Following his tenure at the University of Toronto, he was appointed Chaire de philosophie et histoire des concepts scientifiques at the Collège de France. His term from 2000 to 2006 marked the first time an Anglophone philosopher was awarded the prestigious position. Subsequently, Hacking taught at the University of Chicago (2007), the University of California, Santa Cruz (2008-2010), and the University of Cape Town (2011) as a visiting professor. He numerous year he continued his work as University Professor Emeritus at the University of Toronto and Professeur honoraire at the Collège de France.

Hacking published fourteen books in addition to numerous reviews, articles, and editorials. The books he authored comprise both his academic writing as well more popular texts directed to general audiences. His early text, The Emergence of Probability (1975), explores the influence of a 17th century concept of probability in contemporary thought. Logic, statistical theory, and the history of mathematics are also the central topics of Hacking's Logic of Statistical Inference (1965), Taming of Chance (1990), An Introduction to Probability and Inductive Logic (2001), and Why is There Philosophy of Mathematics at All? (2014).

Hacking's later texts, Rewriting the soul: Multiple personality and the sciences of memory (1995) and Mad travelers: Reflections on the reality of transient mental illnesses (1998), discuss psychiatric illness and the behavioral and social effects of diagnosis.

These texts also reflect Hacking's longstanding interest in 'human kinds' and the relationship between individuals and social categories.

In response to the philosophical debates surrounding the objectivity of scientific inquiry and theory, often referred to as 'the science wars', Hacking published The Social Construction of What? (1999). A collection of Dr. Hacking's writing was published in the volume Historical Ontology (2002) taking essays authored throughout Hacking's career to discuss the philosophical uses of history.

Hacking was recognized for his work with numerous awards, fellowships, and honours. In 1991, he was selected to present the Turner Lectures at Trinity College, Cambridge University and is a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences among other institutions. He was the recipient of the Canadian Council of the Arts Molson Prize (2000), the inaugural Killam Prize for the Humanities (2002) and the Holberg International Memorial Prize (2009). Hacking was named a Companion to the Order of Canada in 2004.

Ian Hacking had three children, Daniel Hacking, Rachel Hacking, and Jane F. Hacking. Following two previous marriages, Dr. Hacking married Judith Baker (nee Polsky, 1938-2014) in 1983. Prof. Baker was a professor of philosophy at York University, Toronto. Following a period of declining health, Hacking died on May 10, 2023.

Scope and content

1854-2015 [predominant 1980-2010]

6.48m of textual records (52 boxes)
0.5m of photographic material (2 boxes)
3,093 digital files (645 MB)

Fonds consists of records documenting the professional and personal life of analytic philosopher and professor, Ian Hacking. Records primarily focus on the academic and publishing activity of Hacking from the early 1980s to 2010. The material reflects the broad and diverse interests of Hacking in his work, as well as his exchange with scholars in diverse fields. Records include correspondence, manuscripts and drafts of written works, reprints, lecture notes, and extensive subject files. Additionally, correspondence, press clippings, and photographs chronicle Hacking's professional and academic achievements.

Fonds also documents aspects of Hacking's personal and family life. These include his diaries and notebooks, birth and marriage certificates, drawings by his children, family snapshots, as well as correspondence, photographs, and copies of records from the Hacking and MacDougall families.

See series and subseries descriptions for additional information.

Arrangement: Records in Series 1 through 6 was given an imposed order as no consistent original order could be identified. Series 7 is arranged loosely by subject matter to preserve components of the original organization in which the material was received. There is no Box 28 included in the fonds. Digital folders were arranged into series based on their content. A complete inventory of all digital files is available upon request.

Custodial history: Material in the Ian Hacking fonds was transferred to the University of Toronto Archives and Records Management Services directly from Ian Hacking in September, 2016. Digital files were transferred from two USB flash drives.

Language: English, French, German, Spanish, and Italian

Access: All files are open to researchers, with the exception of the following files:

Series 1: Personal and biographical

1854-2013

0.13m of textual records

0.14m of graphic material

308 digital files (24 MB)

Series consists of textual records and graphic material documenting Ian Hacking's personal life and career, with eight files related to the histories of both the Hacking and MacDougall families. Records include a passport, birth and marriage certificates, family snapshots, drawings by his children, as well as correspondence detailing financial contributions made to various charities and initiatives. Hacking's professional and academic activity is reflected in written and photographic documentation of awards and honours received, including the Killam Prize for the Humanities, the Companion to the Order of Canada, and the Holberg International Memorial Prize. Also included in the series is an autobiographical document written by Hacking detailing the orientation of his research.

Digital files consist of files documenting his personal life and family ["BUSYNESS"], a folder of biographical information and curriculum vitae, further documentation about the Holberg Prize, and drafts of writings by Judith Baker titled "Trust and Commitment" and "Some Aspects of Reasons and Rationality".

Arrangement: Files arranged in chronological order

Series 2: Correspondence

1967-2013

0.13 m of textual records

33 digital files (3 MB)

Series consists of personal and professional correspondence between Ian Hacking and various individuals, including academic colleagues, students, publishers, friends, and family. The records document Ian Hacking's relationships with both scholars, many of whom provide feedback on his writing, and with administrators. One file includes letters of recommendation for a lectureship at Cambridge University. Personal correspondence includes letters, greeting and postcards. Digital files consist primarily of correspondence in Word files, likely drafts of emails, from 2008-2009.

Note: Correspondence is also included in series that correspond to particular activities. For example, feedback on written works is included in Series 5.3 (Manuscripts and drafts) together with specific texts. Series 7 (Subject files) includes correspondence related to specific topics or authors. Additional correspondence can be found on the verso of these records as Prof. Hacking frequently reused his paper. Within Series 7, correspondence is noted in the file title within square brackets.

Arrangement: Files arranged in chronological order

Access: 1 file of personal correspondence is restricted: B2016-0017/002(07). Please contact the University Archivist for additional information.

Language: English

Box: B2016-0017/002

See Appendix I for file listing.

Series 3: Education (PhD / Cambridge University)

1960-1961
0.04 m of textual records

Series consists of two bound essays on mathematical logic presented as part of Ian Hacking's doctorate at Cambridge University. The essays are entitled Part 1: Proof and Part 2: Strict Implication and Natural Deduction.

Arrangement: The files are arranged sequentially.

Access: Open

Language: English

Box: B0216-0017/003(01) – (02)

See Appendix I for file listing

Series 4: Notebooks, diaries, and day planners

1968-2013
0.18m of textual records

Series consists of diaries, day planners, and notebooks that document the daily activities and reflections of Ian Hacking at various points in his adult life. The early diaries record aspects of his relationship with Judith Baker and as well as his former marriages.

Arrangement: The files are arranged chronologically.

Access: 2 files are restricted, please contact the University Archivist for additional information:

- B2016-0017/003(06)

Language: English

Boxes: B2016-0017/003(04) – B0216-0017/004(12), B2016-0017/052(02)-(06)

See Appendix I for file listing

Series 5: Writing and publishing

1963-2014
1.29 m of textual records
1,609 digital files (145 MB)

Series consists of records related to I. Hacking's publishing activity and is divided into the following subseries:

- 5.1 Reviews
- 5.2 Publishing agreements and correspondence
- 5.3 Manuscripts and drafts
- 5.4 Articles
- 5.5 Reviews of I. Hacking's publications

Material includes reprints of articles and reviews written by Dr. Hacking in addition to press clippings that provide commentary on his work. Also included within the series are correspondence and publishing agreements. The subject matter reflected in the series broadly covers the philosophy of science and mathematics, natural kinds and categorization, rhetoric, logic, psychiatric disorders, and trauma.

Arrangement: Files are arranged in chronological order.

Access: Open

Language: English, French, German, Spanish

Boxes: B2016-0017/005 - /013, B2016-0017/051 - /052

See Appendix I for a file listing

Subseries 5.1: Reviews

1975-2013
0.09 m of textual records
89 digital files (5 MB)

Subseries consists of reprints and digital drafts of reviews written by Hacking. The subject of the reviews focus largely on the philosophy of science, logic, and objectivity.

Arrangement: File are arranged in chronological order

Access: Open

Language: English

Boxes: B2016-0017/005(01) – (15), B2016-0017/051(07)

Subseries 5.2: Publishing agreements and correspondence

1997-2014
0.05 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records documenting communications and agreements with publishers of Hacking's various publications. Records include contracts, memorandum, correspondence, and royalty statements.

Note: Some correspondence and royalty statements can also be found in Series 7 on the verso of printed pages.

Arrangement: Files are arranged in chronological order.

Access: Open

Language: English, French

Box: B2016-0017/005(16) – (23)

Subseries 5.3: Manuscripts and drafts

[ca. 1980] – 2013
0.46 m of textual records
959 digital files (93 MB)

Subseries consists of manuscripts and drafts of Hacking's writing. Records span Hacking's career and reflection on topics that include natural kinds, categorization, logic, reasoning, and the philosophy of mathematics. Subseries includes multiple chapters from the unpublished book Tradition of Natural Kinds and Why is there philosophy of mathematics at all? (2013). Some files include correspondence, which is indicated in the file title within square brackets.

Digital files consist of drafts, research notes and proofs for his book, Why is there philosophy of mathematics at all? (Cambridge University Press, 2014), and unpublished projects Tradition of Natural Kinds and Making Up People. Also included is a folder titled "CURRENT SMALL PROJECTS" which includes an assortment of draft writing.

Arrangement: Files are arranged in chronological order.

Access: 1 file is restricted, please contact the University Archivist for additional information: B2016-0017/007(06)

Language: English, French

Boxes: B2016-0017/005(24) – B2016-0017/009(07), B2016-0017/051(08) – (13)

Subseries 5.4: Articles

1963-2013
0.29 m of textual records
561 digital files (46 MB)

Subseries consists of reprints and digital drafts of articles written by Hacking. Records span his early career to the 2000s and cover topics including statistics, logic, categorization, natural kinds, psychological trauma and disease.

Arrangement: Files are arranged in chronological order.

Access: Open

Language: English, French, German

Boxes: B2016-0017/009(08) – B2016-0017/011(32), B2016-0017/051(14) – B2016-0017/052(06)

Subseries 5.5: Reviews of I. Hacking's publications

1966-2003
0.1 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records collected by Hacking and his publishers which review his own publications. Material is predominantly press clippings, with some reprints and correspondence. If correspondence is included in a file it is noted in the file title within square brackets.

Arrangement: Files are arranged in chronological order

Access: Open

Language: English, Spanish

Boxes: B2016-0017/011(33) – B2016-0017/012(14), B2016-0017/052(07)

Series 6: Lectures, talks, and conferences

1965 -2013 [predominately 2000-2010]

0.29m of textual records

252 digital files (122 MB)

Series consists of records documenting lectures and presentations given by Hacking as both a lecturer and invited speaker. Records consist of primarily lecture notes and drafts from the 2000s, however series also includes records from early in Hacking's career and those for the Turner Lectures at Cambridge University. Subjects of the presentations include autism, the body and corporeality, ultracold atoms, mathematical proof and reasoning.

Arrangement: Files are arranged in chronological order

Access: Open

Language: English, French

Boxes: B2016-0017/012(15) – B2016-0017/015(25), B2016-0017/052(08) – (12)

See Appendix I for file listing

Series 7: Subject files

1587 – 2015

Note: Dates reflects those of original publication, files were copied and collected between ca. 1965 and 2015

4.42m of textual records

891 digital files (382 MB)

Series consists of research material and correspondence with colleagues and scholars collected by Hacking in the course of his academic activity. Records included are predominantly reprints, though also include press clippings, emails, written correspondence, transparencies, and notebooks. Material is grouped by subject as well as author.

Subject matter encompasses a broad range of topics including the history of mathematics, physics (in particular, Bose-Einstein condensates), genetics, classification and taxonomies, porphyrian trees, medieval illustration, autism, body augmentation, suicide terrorism, and psychoanalysis. Authors represented include Ludwig Wittgenstein, Hilary Putnam, Saul Kripke, Willard Van Orman Quine, Michel Foucault, Lorraine Daston, Peter Galison, Bruno Latour, and Noam Chomsky. Correspondence included within the research files is noted in the file title within square brackets. Additional content such as partial manuscripts and correspondence can be found on the verso of records as Hacking frequently reused paper.

Arrangement: Series 7 is arranged loosely by subject matter to preserve components of the original order in which the material was received. Both subjects and authors are repeated throughout the series, though are often clustered together.
