Biographical note

James Fraser Mustard (16 Oct 1927 – 16 Nov 2011) was a prominent Canadian physician and scientist. His later career also focused on promoting interdisciplinary, cross-university research, advocating for early childhood development and encouraging policy makers to consider the social determinants of health.

Education and early medical research

Dr. Mustard attended Whitney Public School in Toronto (1932-38) and the University of Toronto Schools (1938-1946). After his First Year Honour Course in Science at Victoria College (1946/47) he received his MD from the University of Toronto in 1954. In 1953/54 he served as Junior Intern at the Toronto General Hospital before moving to Cambridge, where he received his Ph.D. from the Department of Medicine at the University of Cambridge. He then returned to Toronto, where he was a Senior Intern at Sunnybrook Hospital (1956/57).

It was as a research fellow at U of T's Department of Medicine (1957-1961) that Dr. Mustard's team discovered that Aspirin could have positive effects on heart disease and reduce the risk of heart attacks. His 1958 essay "A study of the relationship between lipids, blood coagulation and atherosclerosis" won the Royal College of Physicians of Canada Medal. He became a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of Canada in 1965.

McMaster University

In 1966, Dr. Mustard was a founding member of the McMaster University Faculty of Medicine. The new Faculty embraced an innovative pedagogy that encouraged problem-based approaches to learning and had students working in small groups, rather than attending large lectures. At McMaster, Dr. Mustard served as the first chairman of the Department of Pathology (1966-1968) and in 1972 became Dean and Vice-President of the Faculty of Health Sciences.

CIAR and Founders' Network

In 1982, Dr. Mustard established the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research (CIAR, later CIFAR) and served as its first president. The CIAR was established as an independent research institution (not affiliated with any particular university) that promoted and supported multi-disciplinary research projects. CIAR projects covered a wide range research interests, including robotics, population health and economic growth. When he left as President of CIAR in 1996, Dr. Mustard then founded and headed the Founders' Network, an "international collection of people interested in promoting CIFAR, science and technology, early childhood, economic issues, determinants of health and human development."

Early Childhood Education

The latter years of Dr. Mustard's career were primarily focused on promoting successful approaches to early childhood education (especially during the pre-kindergarten years) and disseminating research on the social determinants of health to policy makers, academics, community groups and the public. In this capacity, he made hundreds of visits each year to conferences, community groups and government meetings. His most significant contribution is his authoring of the Early Years Report for Ontario (1999), which helped to shape current approaches to early childhood education (including the introduction of full-day, play-based kindergarten). The report led to the creation of the Council for Early Childhood Education, which Dr. Mustard chaired for its entire existence, from 2004-2010.

International: Aga Khan University and Australia

Dr. Mustard worked with organizations and governments across the globe, including in Latin America, Pakistan and Australia. Dr. Mustard served on the Board of Trustees of the Aga Khan University (AKU) since its inception in the early 1980s and was a member of its Chancellor's Commission from 1992-1995. Throughout the 2000s, Dr. Mustard worked closely with various Australian organizations and governments, primarily on issues of human development and early childhood education. He served as 'Thinker in Residence' in Adelaide, South Australia from 2006-2007, advising the government on these matters.

Other organizations and companies

In addition to these primary commitments, Dr. Mustard sat on countless advisory boards and boards of directors for public and private organizations addressing a broad range of concerns, including health and medicine, education, and energy. Dr. Mustard was Chair of the first Board of Directors of the Institute for Work and Health (1990-1999) and has played a key role in several corporations, including as Director (1995-2001) and Chairman (1997-1999) of fuel cell developers, Ballard Power Systems.

Awards and accomplishments

Dr. Mustard is a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada (1976). Among his many awards, Dr. Mustard won the Sir John William Dawson Medal (1993), Royal Bank Award (1993), Frederic Newton Gisborne Starr Award from the Canadian Medical Association (2001), and the Lifetime Achievement Award of the Lawson Foundation (2005). He was appointed to the Order of Ontario (1992), made an Officer of the Order of Canada (1985) and later promoted to Companion in 1993. He has honorary degrees from 23 universities and was inducted into the Canadian Medical Hall of Fame in 2003. A number of chairs and lectures are named in his honour.

Published biography

For more information on the life and career of Dr. Mustard, see the following biography: J. Fraser Mustard: connections & careers / Marian A. Packham. Toronto: Founders' Network, 2010

Scope and content

1947-2011; predominant 1980-2011
15.86 m of textual records (117 boxes)
417 photographs
238 slides (35 mm)
165 MB (45 digital files; .ppt and .doc)
20 objects (awards and medals)
7 cassette tapes; 18 Videos ; 2 DVDs ; 1 audio CD

Fonds consists of the records of Dr. Fraser Mustard, documenting his long and varied career in health, medicine and education, and his work building interdisciplinary, cross-university institutions for research and advocacy. The contents of the fonds primarily document the last 20-30 years of Dr. Mustard's career, although there is some coverage of his early research and teaching career in medicine. The fonds provides a significant record of the work of the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research (CIAR) and Founders' Network, as well as the Early Years Report, Council for Early Childhood Development (CECD), Aga Khan University and Dr. Mustard's work in Australia.

Records include correspondence, day planners and itineraries, travel files, meeting notes, presentation slides, news clippings, reports, minutes, outreach material, photographs and other records documenting Dr. Mustard's speeches, awards and honours, writing, travel, and support for various government initiatives, businesses, academic institutions and community organizations. Evident throughout is Dr. Mustard's innovative approach to pedagogy and organizational structures, his persistent advocacy, and his insistence that governments and communities adopt strategies to early childhood education that are grounded in sound research.

The fonds also documents some aspects of Dr. Mustard's personal life, including some family correspondence and records relating to personal events, such as his 75th birthday, the publication of his biography, and his death.

Arrangement: The fonds is organized into series based on the terms used to label the records' boxes when they first arrived at the Archives. While the fonds includes separate series for CIAR and the Founders' Network, many records throughout the fonds actually relate to Dr. Mustard's work with these organizations, especially inasmuch as their support staff performed much of the administrative work involved in coordinating his projects and travel during the last decades of his life.

Access: Confidential project records and correspondence containing evaluative statements about colleagues and students are restricted for 30 years. Some series (3, 10, 13, 14, 16) are restricted on a file-by-file basis. Restricted files are closed for 30 years after the last date of file activity. See the series descriptions and box-file lists (appendix) for details. Series 1, 2, 4-9, 11, 12 and 15 are open (hence there is no 'access' column in the box-file list).

Digital files must be accessed on a computer in the Archives Reading Room. Requests for viewing this material must be made 2 business days in advance, please contact UTARMS staff to schedule an appointment or for more details.

Boxes: 001-113, 001P-004P, 001ART-004ART

Series 1: Biographical

1947-2011

1.68 m of textual records

364 photographs
20 objects (awards and medals)
6 videos ; 2 DVDs ; 4 sound cassettes ; 1 CD

Series consists of general files documenting the life of Fraser Mustard, including his CV as of 2010. Personal correspondence includes letters relating to his retirement, 75th birthday, biography and his illness near the end of his life. Series also includes various media clippings about Dr. Mustard's life and work, 1947-2010, including his football career at the University of Toronto, his scientific career, his work with the CIAR and Founders' Network, and reactions to his work in early childhood development. Series also includes records relating to Mustard's various awards, memberships and honorary degrees. These records include correspondence, programs, certificates, photographs, plaques, pins and 3-dimensional awards. Awards and media appearances are also documented in video and sound recordings.

See also: For more media clippings, see series 5. Other records relating to honorary degrees and awards can be found in series 3 (correspondence), series 5 (travel files) and series 7 (speeches).

Series 2: Early scientific and medical career

[1957]-2003

0.7 m of textual records
41 photographs
238 slides

Series consists of records documenting Dr. Mustard's early scientific and medical career, including his Ph.D. thesis from Cambridge (1957), a bound volume of research publications by the Blood and Vascular Disease Research Unit at the University of Toronto (1963-1966), records relating to the Task Force on Health Planning (Dr. Mustard served as Chairman), and correspondence relating to an offer to become Deputy Minister of Health. The series also contains visual aids for presentations and publications, including photographs and 35 mm slides relating to Dr. Mustard's research on platelets and cardiology. Some slides are marked with the conference name and date for which they were used. Other photographs document Dr. Mustard's early career activities, including photos of conference attendees.

Series 3: Correspondence

1962-2011

4.69 m of textual records

7 photographs

Series consists of correspondence with colleagues, family, government bodies, organizations, officials, journalists, politicians (federal, provincial and municipal), community groups and university administrators, pertaining to all aspects of Dr. Mustard's later career, including the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research, Founders' Network, Aga Khan University, Early Years studies, and Council for Early Childhood Development. Correspondence also includes ongoing communication with faculty and deans at various medical schools. Early and personal correspondence includes advocacy for medical research and funding and congratulatory messages on Dr. Mustard's chairmanship of Task Force on Health Planning.

The records document the administration of various projects and organizations; organizing and attending events; solicitations of advice and feedback; requests to serve in various capacities within organizations; business matters; award nominations for various colleagues; meetings with ministers; advocacy on behalf of various organizations and early childhood development in general.

In addition to correspondence, records gathered in these files also include meeting notes, draft reports, news clippings, press releases, photographs, academic publications, brochures and information packages, CVs, obituaries, material from memorials and other records.

Arrangement: Files are organized alphabetically by the surname of the individual or the name of the organization. There are several 'miscellaneous' files under particular letters of the alphabet. Occasionally, files were labeled by subject rather than correspondent (ex: "Early Years – Quebec" and "Founders' Outreach").

See also: Projects documented in this series are also represented throughout the fonds. In addition, see meeting notes in series 10 for records of particular meetings with individuals, and travel files in series 5 for records relating to particular visits and project files.

Access: Records are restricted on a file-by-file basis; see the box-file list for details. Files marked 'restricted' are closed for 30 years after the last date in the file.

Series 4: Day planners

1982-2002

0.47 m of textual records

Series consists of Dr. Mustard's day planners, which document his activities and appointments.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2011-0010/039-/043

Series 5: Travel files

1987-2011

2.8 m of textual records

2 photographs

41 digital files (165 MB)

Series consists of records relating to Dr. Mustard's attendance and participation in various events across the world, including meetings, conferences, visits with community groups, presentations, convocations, and other special events. Files consist of correspondence, itineraries, meeting notes, reports, brochures, proceedings, lists of attendees, and news coverage of the event. In some cases, a copy of the presentation is also included.

In cases where files document Dr. Mustard's visits to small communities and early childhood development organizations, files also contain information on the host group and region, including brochures, information packages and news clippings relating to issues in that particular community (such as health, poverty, and child care).

Series also consists of digital files, containing PowerPoint presentations (.ppt) for particular talks and speeches, 2003-2005.

Arrangement: Paper files are organized by the date of the event. This is the date listed in the 'dates' column of the file list for this series (rather than the dates of the records). There are limited records in this series for the period between 1999 and 2003.

See also: Records relating to these visits are also included in various other series, including series 3 (correspondence), series 7 (speeches), and series 8 (slides).

Access: Open. Digital files in this series must be accessed on a computer in the Archives Reading Room. Requests for viewing this material must be made 2 business days in advance, please contact Archives staff to schedule an appointment or for more details.

See appendix 1 for box-file list and appendix 2 for index of electronic records.

Series 6: Early presentations

1978-1984

0.13 m of textual records

Series consists of the text of presentations given to various groups during the earlier years of Dr. Mustard's career (1978-1984). Files were originally labeled "non-scientific presentations." Topics include health care, medical research, the role of the university, technology, occupational health and safety and population health.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2011-0010/064-/065

See appendix 1 for box-file list and list of presentations.

Series 7: Speeches

1985-2011

0.35 m of textual records

2 VHS tapes ; 1 DVD ; 2 cassette tapes

Series primarily consists of the text and slides of speeches delivered to various groups in the latter decades of Dr. Mustard's career, on a wide range of issues. Topics include health care, social determinants of health, technological change, economic and policy issues, the role of the university, innovation, social justice, and early childhood education.

The series also begins with a printout from a database kept to organize Dr. Mustard's many speaking engagements (covering the years 1996-2011), and presentation abstracts covering the years 1989-2010.

See also: See series 5 (travel files) and 8 (slides) for more records relating to presentations. Speeches relating to awards and honorary degrees may also be found in series 1 and series 3 (correspondence).

Access: Open

See appendix 1 for box-file list and list of speeches.

See appendix 3 for list of sound and moving image.

Series 8: Slides

1989-2006

0.18 m of textual records

4 digital files (23 MB)

Series consists of paper copies of slides used by Dr. Mustard in his various presentations. These printouts were kept in binders, organized by year, with each slide assigned a particular number. These binders were presumably used as a reference for assembling a slide show for various presentations. For the years 1996-1999, the slides are digital files only.

Series also consists of digital Power Point Presentation (.ppt) versions of these files, 1989-2005.

Access: Open

Digital files in this Series must be accessed on a computer in the Archives Reading Room. Requests for viewing this material must be made 2 business days in advance, please contact Archives staff to schedule an appointment or for more details.

Boxes: B2011-0010/068-/069

See appendix 1 for box-file list and appendix 2 for index of electronic records.

Series 9: Publications

1988-2010

0.13 m of textual records

Series consists of select publications (articles and reports) by Dr. Mustard. Topics include innovation, the role of post-secondary education, social equality and economic growth, and early childhood development. The series also includes several, more comprehensive, lists of publications authored by Dr. Mustard.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2011-0010/070

See appendix 1 for box-file list, organized by series.

Series 10: Canadian Institute for Advanced Research

1981-2011

2.25 m of textual records

5 videos and 1 cassette tape

Series consists of Dr. Mustard's records relating to his work with the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research (CIAR). In 1982, Dr. Mustard established and served as the first president of the CIAR, a multi-disciplinary, independent research institution. CIAR acted as a network of researchers from across universities, working on collaborative projects. CIAR research spanned many disciplines. Early research examined artificial intelligence and robotics, evolutionary biology, superconductivity, economic growth and policy, and population health and human development. Later efforts included quantum information processing; social interactions, identity and well-being; and astrobiology.

Dr. Mustard served as president until 1996. Chaviva Hošek served as President and CEO from 2001 until 2012, when she was succeeded by Alan Bernstein. The CIAR changed its acronym to CIFAR in 2007. The original acronym, which predominates in Dr. Mustard's papers, is retained here.

The records in this series are subdivided into several categories. Administrative records include minutes of the Board of Directors, financial records and Research Council meeting minutes. The series also contains records relating to staffing and personnel. Files marked 'meeting notes' are typed summaries of various meetings attended by Dr. Mustard (1984-2011). These notes are organized chronologically, and provide summaries of discussions, notes for actions to be taken, and often include very candid impressions of individuals with whom Dr. Mustard met.

Next, the series contains the contents of 'document binders,' which held key documents of the CIAR, including financial summaries, reports, strategies, project details and outreach material. The series also includes publications by the CIAR, relating to various projects and topics, including the space station, the social determinants of health, technology, and the CIAR newsletter, Entropy.

Next, project files document various projects and programs administered by the CIAR, including the Canada Project, Experience-based Brain and Biological Development (EBBD), and the Population Health Program. Lastly, the series also consists of documentation of various CIAR events and celebrations and a large collection of news clippings covering the CIAR and its activities (1982-1996).

For more information on the history of the CIAR see the CIAR website.

Craig Brown, A Generation of Excellence: a history of the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research. Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 2007.

Access: Files are restricted until 30 years after the last date of file activity. Please see the box-file list for more details.

Series 11: Founders' Network

1996-2010

0.16 m of textual records

Series consists of records documenting Dr. Mustard's work with the Founders' Network, including general administrative files, reports and media coverage.

Following his departure from the CIAR in 1996, Dr. Mustard established the Founders' Network, which, according to their website, is an "international collection of people interested in promoting CIFAR, science and technology, early childhood, economic issues, determinants of health and human development." The Founders' Network was a means for Dr. Mustard to continue his work at CIAR, at arms' length. It sought to build a network of individuals who had been a part of CIAR since its early years, support its new president, make connections with community groups looking to apply some of CIAR's research, and, at times, assist with CIAR programs.

See also: Most of Dr. Mustard's work after 1996 was filtered through the Founders' Network, and hence records throughout the fonds (including travel files in series 5) belong to the Founders' Network. The records gathered here were clearly marked as records relating distinctly to the Founders' Network.

Series 12: Early Years Studies

1993-2007

1.1 m of textual records

Series consists of records relating to Dr. Mustard's involvement with the Ontario's Early Years Studies. The first study, commissioned by the Ontario Government, was co-chaired by Dr. Mustard and the Honorable Margaret Norrie McCain, former New Brunswick Lieutenant Governor. The results were published as The Early Years Study - Reversing the Real Brain Drain in April 1999. The study looked at the social determinants of human development and health, and argued that interventions in early childhood (before the age of 5) could lead to great impacts later in life.

A second report, Early Years Study 2: Putting Science into Action, was published by the Council for Early Childhood Development (see series 13) in 2007, with Dr. Stuart Shanker joining Dr. Mustard and McCain as author. A third report, Early Years Study 3: Making decisions, taking action, was co-authored with McCain and Kerry McCuaig and published only a few days after Dr. Mustard's death, in November 2011.

The series is organized into 5 categories. First, administrative records include agendas, minutes and meeting notes, planning files and other records documenting the work of the study. Second, the series includes correspondence and memos issued by the group. This correspondence especially documents the group's interactions with various government departments at the federal and provincial levels. The next grouping of records, which were labeled "communities consulted," consists of files on various community groups across Ontario who the group visited and consulted with over the course of the study. Files are organized alphabetically by location and consist primarily of general information (brochures, information packages) on community groups promoting early childhood development. The next category consists of file on various organizations who were a part of the study, including the Peel Child Care Committee, Royal Conservatory of Music, George Hull Centre for Children and Families, and the Ontario College of Family Physicians. Lastly, the series contains various reports, drafts and feedback from the first two studies.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2011-0010/089-/097

See appendix 1 for box-file list, organized by series.

Series 13: Council for Early Childhood Development (CECD)

2002-2010

0.65 m of textual records

Series consists of records documenting Dr. Mustard's work on the Council for Early Childhood Development (CECD), of which he was Founder (2004) and Chair Emeritus. The organization worked to compile research on early childhood development and ensure that knowledge was disseminated to various groups and communities. It also worked to publicize the Early Years Report and advocate for increased support for early childhood (pre-kindergarten) education. The Council disbanded in October 2010.

Records include general administrative records, reports, committee files, presentation slides, documentation of events and gatherings, news clippings and files on particular individuals involved with the council.

Access: Records are restricted on a file-by-file basis; see the box-file list for details. Files marked 'restricted' are closed for 30 years after the last date of file activity.

Boxes: B2011-0010/098-/102

See appendix 1 for box-file list, organized by series.

Series 14: Organizations and companies

1990-2010

0.5 m of textual records

Series consists of records that were originally organized under the heading "Organizations and companies – involvement with" and consist of files on various projects, organizations and companies Dr. Mustard worked with throughout his career. These were set apart from other files (Early Years Study, CIAR, etc), presumably because Dr. Mustard's involvement with these groups and companies spanned across his own organizational and project affiliations.

These projects include both public and private sector approaches to a range of topics, including education, energy and health. Records include correspondence, planning documents, strategies, event programs, meeting notes, invitations, requests for support and general information (brochures, reports, outreach material) on the organizations.

The series documents three notable affiliations that are not represented well in other series. First, Dr. Mustard served as the Chair of the first Board of Directors of the Institute for Work and Health (1990-1999). Dr. Mustard also served as Director (1995-2001) and Chairman (1997-1999) of Ballard Power Systems, an alternative energy company invested in fuel cell technology. The records also address Dr. Mustard's work with PRECARN (Pre-competitive Applied Research Network), a consortium of businesses and individuals researching artificial intelligence and robotics.

In addition, the records document Dr. Mustard's participation in the R&D Advisory Panel of the Atomic Energy of Canada Limited; the Allianz Educational Foundation Advisory Board; the Patron's Council of the Alzheimer Society of Toronto, Director; the Board of Directors, Ontario Principals' Council; the Board of Directors of Pence Inc.; the UBC Faculty of Graduate Studies Advisory Board; the Weizman Institute of Science; and the Council of Advisory Governors at the YMCA, in addition to others.

The series also documents his participation in various government efforts addressing early childhood education, including the Audit of Federal Programming for Children in 2004. In addition, Dr. Mustard was appointed Children's Health and Development Advisor in 2001 as part of the B.C. Child Development and Health Initiative, in part to establish the Children's Health and Development Office within B.C.'s provincial government.

See also: Dr. Mustard's work with these organizations is also documented in his correspondence (series 5).

Access: Records are restricted on a file-by-file basis; see the box-file list for details. Files marked 'restricted' are closed for 30 years after the last date in the file.

Series 15: Australia and the Adelaide Thinker in Residence

1999-2010
0.25 m of textual records
1 photograph

Series consists of records relating to Dr. Mustard's work with Australian colleagues, governments and community groups, including his participation in the "Thinker in Residence" program sponsored by the Adelaide government of South Australia. This program brings influential thinkers to Australia to help inform the government on key issues. Dr. Mustard provided advice and research on early childhood education and human development. The series also documents his work with other governments and agencies, including ARACY (Australian Research Alliance for Children and Youth) and the Government of South Australia.

Records consist of correspondence with colleagues, politicians and government employees, meeting notes, reports and articles.

Series 16: Aga Khan University

1991-2011

0.45 m of textual records

2 photographs

2 Videos

Series consists of records relating to Dr. Mustard's involvement with the Aga Khan University (AKU), based in Karachi, Pakistan. Dr. Mustard served on the Board of Trustees of the AKU since its inception in the early 1980s until his death, and was a member of the Chancellor's Commission (1992-1995). In the early years, Dr. Mustard was instrumental in building the foundations of the university's academic programs (especially Medicine) and shaping its administrative structure. In later years, he was involved in developing various academic programs, including the new Faculty of Arts and Sciences, and advocating for a program in human development. This work was also closely aligned with his relationships with Ismaili communities in Canada.

Records consist of various committee files, reports, correspondence and minutes, including correspondence with the head of the institution, His Highness Prince Karim the Aga Khan. Series also consists of photographs of the Board of Trustees (2001 and 2006)
