BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Professor Richard B. Lee is an internationally known anthropologist who studies hunting and gathering societies and is particularly famous for his work on the !Kung San of Botswana. Born in Canada, Prof. Lee graduated from the University of Toronto in Anthropology with a B.A. in 1959 and an M.A. in 1961. He pursued his studies at the University of California Berkley, graduating with a Ph.D. in 1965. Concurrently, he was employed by Harvard University as a Graduate Research Anthropologist from 1963 to 1965 during which time (1963-64) he did his first of many field trips among the !Kung San bushmen of the Kalahari. From 1965 to 1967, he was a lecturer in Social Anthropology at Harvard and from 1967-70 was a research fellow in the Department of Social Relations and Centre for Behavioral Sciences at Harvard. For two years from 1970-72, he was associate professor of anthropology at Rutgers University before returning to the University of Toronto to take on the same position. By 1976 he had risen to the rank of professor and in 1999 was honored with the appointment to University Professor, a position he still holds.

Field research and grants to support them have been a significant part of Prof. Lee's career and success. As part of the Kalahari Research Group out of Harvard, he studied and lived among the !Kung San numerous times including the 1963-64 year mentioned above, as well as a three year study funded by the N.I.M.H (National Institute of Mental Health) from 1967-70 with Harvard Anthropologist Irven DeVore. In 1982-83, he was Connaught Senior Fellow and took leave to study "Agriculture, the State and Capitalism: A Study of Large Scale Social Change". He has been the recipient of funds from various other sources including the Canada Council and the Humanities and Social Science Research Council. His study of foraging societies has extended well beyond the !Kung San to include peoples in Tanzania, Namibia, Alaska, Australia, British Columbia, the Yukon and Labrador. Most recently his research has focused on the anthropology of health and the cultural and social factors in AIDS epidemic in southern Africa for which he has received funds from the National Institutes of Health (U.S.) via Columbia University School of Public Health as well as directly from the University of Toronto.

Prof. Lee has published over 100 articles and chapters in books. He has authored several books including Man the Hunter (1968), Kalahari Hunter Gathers (1976), Politics and History in Band Societies (1982) and The Dobe Ju/'hoansi (2003). Most recognized is his 1979 , The !Kung San: Men and Women and Work in a Foraging Society, listed in American Scientist list of the 100 most important works in science of the 20th century. Prof. Lee won the Anisfield-Wolf Award in Racial Relations for this same work from the Cleveland Foundation. He has also given numerous lectures at symposiums and meetings and is a sought after keynote speaker for groups worldwide.

Prof. Lee has been active in several professional associations including: the Association of American Anthropologists for which he organized several meetings and symposiums; founding member of Anthropologists for Radical Political Change; past president of the Canadian Anthropologist Society and the Canadian Ethnology Society. He has also been a referee for various publications (American Anthropologist, Current Anthropology) and granting agencies (Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council, Wenner-Gren Foundation and the National Science Foundation). He is a member of the Royal Society of Canada and is a Foreign Honorary Member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Prof. Richard Lee lives in Toronto and continues to research, publish and teach in the Department of Anthropology. He is also a sought after scholar for invited lectures world wide.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

1962-2009, predominant 1963-1992                      6.64 m                      multimedia

While Richard Lee's career as anthropologist spans some 40 years, the records accessioned as B2007-0018 documents mainly his early career, particularly his research on the !Kung San bushmen in the Kalahari. Included are research records, field notes, correspondence, papers, manuscripts, photographs and sound recordings found in several series of records. As well, there is a fair amount of documentation on the Kalahari Research Group itself. This was a group of mainly American anthropologists, of which Richard Lee was an early member.

Prof. Lee's publishing activities is documented only to a limited degree, again during his early career from 1963 to 1975 (Series 4). Of significance is the manuscript for his acclaimed The !Kung San: Men and Women and Work in a Foraging Society. For researchers interested in the history of anthropology as a profession both in Canada and the United States, there are several files on the American Anthropological Association (Series 5) and the activist group Anthropologists for Radical Political Action. Finally, his early teaching career at Harvard University, Rutgers University and the University of Toronto from 1972 to 1975 is documented in Series 6.

A further accession of records (B2012-0012), includes continuation material in the existing series. The addition of two series, includes his student notebooks from his own university education here at the University of Toronto and at University Berkley (Series 8) and grant proposals and related paperwork (Series 7).

SERIES 1 CORRESPONDENCE

1962-2007 predominant 1963-1992 1.3 m

In-coming as well as out-going correspondence was arranged by Lee in various runs. Filed at the beginning is a chronological series of files containing letters from 1967-1972. One file contains job offers from various universities in 1969-70 while another file relates to correspondence around his job offer at the University of Toronto. Apart from job offers, most of the correspondence is with colleagues world wide and is of both a professional and personal nature. Much of the early correspondence relates to field trips to the Kalahari and related research.

The second run of files is general alphabetical files with correspondence dating from about 1970 to 1975. Again this correspondence relates mainly to Prof. Lee's research and is from colleagues and students. It includes comments on his publications and routine requests for information and advice, requests to attend seminar and talks and other professional meetings, as well as Prof. Lee's reports or comments as a peer reviewer of papers. There are also letters of recommendation, reviews of theses and general correspondence documenting his role as a teacher.

A third run is an alphabetical run of files arranged by the correspondent. Correspondence is similar in nature to the general alphabetical files described above but is more voluminous for each person and covers a time period mainly from 1965-1975 with the bulk dating from the late 1960s to 1972. Included is correspondence with well known anthropologists such as Carl Heider (Brown University / University of Southern California), Adam Kuper (University College, London), Mary Leakey, Sidney Mintz (Yale University), Julian Steward (Columbia / University of Illinois), Sherwood Washburn (Harvard University and Lee's advisor) and Eric Wolf (City University of New York).

Finally, Prof. Lee himself arranged a small run of correspondence files from famous people or people influential in his professional development. They include people such as Margaret Atwood and Carl Sagan as well as fellow anthropologists Philip Tobias and Bruce Trigger.

In addition to the correspondence from the 2007 donation, there is a grouping of correspondence from the 2012 addition. This is arranged alphabetically by correspondent, with occasional subject file as designated by Lee. Many of the earlier correspondents appear in this section again.

SERIES 2 RESEARCH

1963-1984 predominant 1963-1975 2.46 m

This series contains records documenting research undertaken by Richard Lee, mainly on the !Kung San in the Kalahari. Most important is a complete set of field notes for his two earliest field excursions among the !Kung San in 1963-64 and again in 1967-69. While this set is a copy of the original, they are the only set arranged in its original chronological order. Prof. Lee's first set, retained by him, is arranged by subject for easier research access. There is also original collected data on height and weight of the !Kung San. This originates in both hand written spread sheets and in collated computer data printouts for the years 1967-1971. Finally there is a vocabulary card list, and one box of files with transcripts of interviews with Lee, newspaper clippings covering Lee's excursions and notes related to research, reports and proposals.

Prof. Lee's later acquisition provided additional notebooks, primary field research, data, and supplementary research to his initial and later research fields.

Field notes – B2007-0018/010 – /014. For detailed break down see Appendix 2.

Height and Weight Charts – B2007-0018/015

SERIES 3      KALAHARI RESEARCH GROUP

1963-1975                  0.53 m

This series documents the work of various members of the Kalahari Research Group from about 1963 to 1974. It consists of files arranged alphabetically by the name of the principal researchers in the Kalahari Research Group as well as a second run of files for related researchers. These files contain correspondence with both Lee and among other group members that discuss meetings, research, publications and field work. They also contain original reports, papers, research data, grant applications and some off prints.

Also included in this series is a collected set of papers, some published, others unpublished that represent the work of the entire group from about 1965 to 1975. These are numbered 1 to 109 are arranged in this order. Some include drafts with notes by Prof. Lee.

Alphabetical files – B2007-0018/008 and /009. See Appendix 3 for detailed listing

Collected papers – B2007-0018/018 and /019

Additional material – B2012-0012/009 (05)

SERIES 4 PUBLICATIONS

1965-1997 0.65m

While Prof. Lee has published over a hundred papers, reviews, chapters in books as well as several books, this series contains manuscripts and typescripts for only a handful. Some of the files contain related correspondence and drafts. There are reviews written by Lee as well as correspondence with publishers especially for his Man the Hunter. Except for one paper, all date from 1965-1975. They are arranged chronologically.

Nevertheless, this series does contain the original manuscript of Prof. Lee's acclaimed The !Kung San: Men and Women and Work in a Foraging Society. This book was included in a list by American Scientist of important books in science for the 20th century. Under the category of "The Nature and the Rise of our own Species", Lee's book shares the list with books by Sigmund Freud, Mary Leaky, Noam Chomsky and Ivan P. Pavlov to name but a few.<sup>1</sup>

SERIES 5    PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATIONS AND MEETINGS

1964-2006    0.45 m

This series documents Prof. Lee's activities in several associations especially in the early 1970s. Well documented with correspondence, memos, reports, notes, agenda are the 1971 and 1972 meetings of the American Anthropological Association (AAA). The 1971 AAA meeting was marked with controversy over the Thailand Report and the issue of funding sources for anthropological research. Out of this grew Anthropologists for Radical Political Action (ARPA). Prof. Lee was a founding member and there are several files documenting the early emergence of this group from 1972 to 1974. In 1972, the AAA meeting was held in Toronto and Prof. Lee helped organize it, and in particular, the China Symposium and Political Struggles of Native Peoples Symposium. There are several files that document this meeting including papers, correspondence, notes, agenda, clippings, newsletter, etc.

Also in 1972, Prof. Lee along with Professors Bill Kemp and Harvey Feit of McGill, proposed a Canadian Inter-University Seminar on economic and underdevelopment in Canada's north. These multi-discipline meetings were a reaction to the concern of American dominance over disciplines such as anthropology. The proposal, along with correspondence, documents this attempt.

Two other significant conferences documented include: Communication with Extra-Terrestrial Intelligence which was a joint conference of the Soviet Academy of Science and the National Academy of Sciences (1971) and Symposium on Political Struggles of International Peoples, International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences (1973). There are also a few general files on Political Action groups that interested Prof. Lee in the early 1970s.

Prof. Lee was heavily involved with the Canadian Ethnological Society (CESEC) as well as a number of other committees and conferences represented here.

Arrangement is by group or meeting, chronologically.

SERIES 10 SOUND AND MOVING IMAGES

196- - 1972 0.2 m

Sound recordings and video document Prof. Lee's research. Reel to reel tapes contain interviews, testimonies with !Kung San bushmen, talks given by Lee on this very topic, taped vocabulary lists of the !Kung San people's language, native music from Botswana and one radio interview with Prof. Lee. Two videos document a discussion among women academics on the role of women in a hunter and gatherer society. Finally two tapes contain a partial recording of the symposium of Political Struggles of Native Peoples, organized by Prof. Lee in 1972.

Arrangement is chronological.
