Biographical note

Professor Richard B. Lee is an internationally known anthropologist who began his career as a lead member of Harvard's Kalahari Research Group that studied hunting and gathering societies. Lee is best known for his work on the !Kung San of Botswana and Namibia. Born in Canada, Prof. Lee graduated from the University of Toronto in Anthropology with a B.A. in 1959 and an M.A. in 1961. He pursued his studies at the University of California Berkley, graduating with a Ph.D. in 1965. Concurrently, he was employed by Harvard University as a Graduate Research Anthropologist from 1963 to 1965 during which time (1963-64) he did his first of many field trips among the !Kung San bushmen of the Kalahari. From 1965 to 1967, he was a lecturer in Social Anthropology at Harvard and from 1967-70 was a research fellow in the Department of Social Relations and Centre for Behavioral Sciences at Harvard. For two years from 1970-72, he was associate professor of anthropology at Rutgers University before returning to the University of Toronto to take on the same position. By 1976 he had risen to the rank of professor and in 1999 was honored with the appointment to University Professor, a position he still holds.

Field research and grants to support them have been a significant part of Prof. Lee's career and success. As part of the Kalahari Research Group out of Harvard, he studied and lived among the !Kung San numerous times including the 1963-64 year mentioned above, as well as a three year study funded by the N.I.M.H (National Institute of Mental Health) from 1967-70 with Harvard Anthropologist Irven DeVore. In 1982-83, he was Connaught Senior Fellow and took leave to study "Agriculture, the State and Capitalism: A Study of Large Scale Social Change". He has been the recipient of funds from various other sources including the Canada Council and the Humanities and Social Science Research Council. His study of foraging societies has extended well beyond the !Kung San to include peoples in Tanzania, Namibia, Alaska, Australia, British Columbia, the Yukon and Labrador. Throughout his career, his research interests encompassed indigenous human right, the effect of global capitalism on the world's indigenous peoples, as well as human evolutionary theory. During his later years, Lee turned his focus to the anthropology of health and the cultural and social factors of the HIV/AIDS epidemic in southern Africa. He spearheaded a partnership between the University of Toronto and the University of Namibia (1996-2004) that resulted in internships placements for hundreds of Canadian and Namibian students in areas of medicine, public health and research in health anthropology.

Prof. Lee published over 100 articles and chapters in books. He authored several books including Man the Hunter (1968), Kalahari Hunter Gathers (1976), Politics and History in Band Societies (1982) and The Dobe Ju/'hoansi (2003). His most acclaimed book, The !Kung San: Men and Women and Work in a Foraging Society (1979), was listed in

Richard Lee fonds University of Toronto Archives

American Scientist 100 most important works in science of the 20th century. Prof. Lee won the Anisfield-Wolf Award in Racial Relations for this same work from the Cleveland Foundation. He has also given numerous lectures at symposiums and meetings and is a sought-after keynote speaker for groups worldwide.

Prof. Lee has been active in several professional associations including: the Association of American Anthropologists for which he organized several meetings and symposiums; founding member of Anthropologists for Radical Political Change; past president of the Canadian Anthropologist Society and the Canadian Ethnology Society. He has also been a referee for various publications (American Anthropologist, Current Anthropology) and granting agencies (Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council, Wenner-Gren Foundation, and the National Science Foundation). He is a member of the Royal Society of Canada and is a Foreign Honorary Member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Prof. Richard Lee lives in Toronto and continues to research and publish as Professor Emeritus in the Department of Anthropology.

Scope and content

1958-2012

12.5 m of multi-media records (65 boxes)

This fonds contains comprehensive documentation on all aspects of Richard Lee's work as a well-known anthropologist. Correspondence, found within Series 1 but also throughout the fonds, is multifaceted and includes both incoming and outgoing letters with colleagues, students, university administrators and publishers. His teaching lectures and numerous papers, talks and drafts of publications represent a full body of work that synthesis his research from his early work with the Ju/'hoansi-!Kung San of Botswana and Namibia to his evolving interest in indigenous human rights and the impact of Aids/HIV in southern Africa. This fonds is rich in original research including original collated data, field notebooks, grants requests and general notes. Much of this is supplemented with photographs and sound recordings related to his research and publications. Finally, files relating to professional meetings and groups document the overall field of anthropology, Lee's role within it and the changing nature of the discipline and the role of anthropologists in society.

Access: All records are open except specific parts of series which are closed for confidentiality:

Series 1: Correspondence

1962-201-
2.2 m

This series is made up of various correspondence runs in all three accessions that overlap both in terms of correspondent and time period. Each accession contains both chronological runs of correspondence and alphabetical runs as reflected in Lee's own arrangement. The correspondence is incoming and outgoing and is both a professional and personal nature.

Correspondence in B2007-0018 focuses on Lee's early career mainly dating from 1965-1975 and especially documents his field work and research in the late 1960s as part of the Kalahari Research Project. There is also correspondence with colleagues and students commenting on his publications, requesting information and advice, requesting his participation at talks and seminar and other professional meetings. The bulk of correspondence in this accession is filed by correspondent's name and, this accession in particular, has a separate run of files with more famous people and people Lee himself highlighted as influential in his professional development. These include Canadian author Margaret Atwood, the famous astronomer Carl Sagan as well as fellow anthropologists Kathleen Gough, Elenor Leacock, Philip Tobias and Bruce Trigger to list a few.

B2012-0012 contains only an alphabetical series focusing on the period from the mid-1970s to the mid-1990s. Many of the names reappear from the previous accession. These include with well-known anthropologists such as Carl Heider (Brown University / University of Southern California), Adam Kuper (University College, London), Mary Leakey, Sidney Mintz (Yale University), Sherwood Washburn (Harvard University and Lee's advisor) and Eric Wolf (City University of New York).

B2019-0017 has an alphabetical run by name but also contains extensive correspondence that Lee chose to file chronologically.

For all accruals, letters of recommendation and support are files as part of this series at the end.

Note: For all accruals, letters of recommendation and support are filed as part of this series at the end and are restricted

Arrangement: Contains both chronological and alphabetical runs.

Series 2: Research

1963-2010

This series contains research records such as field notes, data sets, notes and drafts of the beginnings of papers, correspondence and planning documents relating to research activities.

B2007-0018 contains the most extensive set of field notebooks. Acquired in this accession were the copies for his two earliest field excursions among the !Kung San in 1963-64 and again in 1967-69. An original set of the 1963-64 set as well as his 1973 field trip notebooks were acquired as part of B2019-0017 donation, with the odd one missing from the series. For a complete list see Appendix 2. B2007-0018 also included original collected data on height and weight of the !Kung San. This originates in both hand written spread sheets and in collated computer data printouts for the years 1967-1971. Finally there is a vocabulary card list, and one box of files with transcripts of interviews with Lee, newspaper clippings

B2012-0012 acquisition provided additional notebooks, primary field research, data, and supplementary research to his initial and later research fields.

B2019-0017 contained some of the original field notebooks as described above and in appendix 2. This accession also contains Lee's extensive research organized into the book chapters for The !Kung San (1979). These files are followed by later research in the 1980s and 1990s relating to his areas of expertise on the indigenous peoples of Namibia and Botswana. There are also extensive files documenting his shifting interest in medical anthropology and the social cultural aspects of HIV/Aids in southern Africa Research files document his leadership and active involvement in the Fogerty / University of Namibia program.

Series 3: Kalahari Research Group

1963-1975

0.53 m

This series documents the work of various members of the Kalahari Research Group from about 1963 to 1974. It consists of files arranged alphabetically by the name of the principal researchers in the Kalahari Research Group as well as a second run of files for related researchers. These files contain correspondence with both Lee and among other group members that discuss meetings, research, publications and field work. They also contain original reports, papers, research data, grant applications and some off prints.

Also included in this series is a collected set of papers, some published, others unpublished that represent the work of the entire group from about 1965 to 1975. These are numbered 1 to 109 are arranged in this order. Some include drafts with notes by Prof. Lee.

Series 4: Papers, talks and published works

1965-2011

1.85 m

This series represents the output of Lee's research through most of his career and include drafts and typescripts of books and chapters in books, published papers, unpublished papers presented a conferences and professional meetings, articles, reviews and talks. Files in this series not only include draft of these works but also, for more significant publications, there are contracts, correspondence with publishers and reviews.

B2007-0018 contains the original manuscript of Prof. Lee's acclaimed The !Kung San: Men and Women and Work in a Foraging Society. This book was included in a list by American Scientist of important books in science for the 20th century. Under the category of "The Nature and the Rise of our own Species", Lee's book shares the list with books by Sigmund Freud, Mary Leaky, Noam Chomsky and Ivan P. Pavlov to name but a few.¹

Earlier drafts of some the chapters of The !Kung San can also be found in B2012-0012 along with various other papers.

B2019-0017 contains the greatest extent and variations of works from 1969 – 2011 and reflect his evolving interest over his career.

Series 5: Professional Associations and Meetings

1964-1998

0.95 m

This series documents Prof. Lee's activities in several associations and professional groups throughout his career. Some of the key professional associations include: American Anthropology Association, Canadian Ethnology Society/ société Canadienne d'ethnologie (CESCE), Canadian Sociology and Anthropology Association, Kalahari People's Fund, Anthropologists for a Radical Political Action. Files can contain correspondence, memos, reports, agenda, minutes, notes from meeting or talks, planning documents.

Of particular note and significance to the field of anthropology and to Lee's role within the profession is documentation on some early 1970s events and developments.

- The 1971 AAA meeting marked with controversy over the Thailand Report and the issue of funding sources for anthropological research
- The Anthropologists for Radical Political Action (ARPA) - a result of the above controversy and of which Lee was a founding member.
- The 1972 AAA meeting, held in Toronto - Lee organized the Political Struggles of Native Peoples Symposium (also referred to as New Native Resistance symposium) as well as the China Symposium.
- The 1972 Canadian Inter-University Seminar on economic and underdevelopment in Canada's north - first proposed by Prof. Lee along with Professors Bill Kemp and Harvey Feit of McGill, these proposed multi-discipline meetings were a reaction to the concern of American dominance over disciplines such as anthropology.
- The Conference on Hunting and Gathering Peoples and National Development organized by Lee in 1976 as Chair of the African Studies Programme Committee

There is also extensive documentation on the Conference on Hunting and Gathering Societies (CHAGS). This meeting was held internationally every 2nd year and Lee was an active participant and organizer.

The associations and groups documented in this series shed light on Lee's research interest and his political activism which were interconnected.

Arrangement: Arrangement is by group or meeting, chronologically.

Series 6: Teaching

1965-2009

1.22 m

This series consists of course files containing both draft and typed lectures as well as course materials such as outlines, reading lists and assignments. His entire teaching career and the evolution of his interests and expertise are well documented in this series which includes courses taught at Harvard University (1965-1970), Rutgers University (1970-1972) and the University of Toronto Department of Anthropology (1972 -). There are also some early course files for African Studies and Women's Studies.

Of note, is Lee's ANT 363 Origin of the State which he also taught at the Toronto Marxist Institute (1982, 1985). This series contains his lectures but also a typescript for an unpublished book based on the course content. He developed a course around his research around 9/11 and later around his interest in HIV/Aids in southern Africa. By the 2000s, he was teaching The Anthropology of Health, HIV Aids in Africa and a Medical Anthropology Graduate Seminar.

This series also contains a small number of files Lee kept on the graduate students he supervised. These are restricted.

Series 13: Audio Visual records

1963? - 2003

0.33 m

Sound recordings and video in B2007-0018 mainly document Prof. Lee's research from the mid 1960s to 1972. Reel to reel tapes contain interviews, testimonies with !Kung San bushmen, talks given by Lee on this very topic, taped vocabulary lists of the !Kung San people's language, native music from Botswana and one radio interview with Prof. Lee. Two videos document a discussion among women academics on the role of women in a hunter and gatherer society. Finally, two tapes contain a partial recording of the symposium of Political Struggles of Native Peoples, organized by Prof. Lee in 1972.

Sound recordings and video in B2019-0017 also documents his early research and include field recordings from 1964 and 1969. However most recordings are of Lee giving various lectures and talks in the 1980s and 1990s including a full set of this lectures for ANT 363 Origin of the State.
