By 1964, he had achieved the position of full professor and in 1986, Professor Emeritus.

During his early years at McGill, Spencer joined the McGill University Canadian Officers Training Corps as a Cadet in 1941. By 1944, he had been promoted to Captain. After World War II, from 1958 to 1966, he served in the University of Toronto Contingent, Canadian Officers Training Corps as a Major, then as a Lieutenant Colonel and commanding officer (1962-1966). He then served on the COTC's Board of Trustees to 2001.

He was also instrumental in formulating the International Studies Programme from 1967 to 1972. During his tenure, he has taught courses on European history, with emphasis on German history during the 19th and 20th centuries. Related fields of interest include international relations, Canadian foreign policy and East-West relations in Europe, and he has researched, spoken and written extensively on these subjects both internationally and in Toronto.

Fluent in English, French and German with some knowledge of Italian, Spencer has served as a visiting professor at Historische Kommission zu Berlin, Friedrich Meinecke Institute, Free University of Berlin (1970), Facolta di Giurisprudenza, University of Siena (1985), St. Anthony's College at Oxford (1986) and as a visiting fellow at the Research School of Pacific Studies, Australian National University (1987). Shortly after the death of his wife in 2000, Professor Spencer moved to Ottawa to be closer to his children.

Ruth Margaret Church was born in Montreal on 3 March 1919, the daughter of J. Percy and Margaret Spencer. In 1931 she was stricken with polio and was confined to the Children's Memorial Hospital, followed by a long recuperation at home. She attended the High School for Girls in Montreal and Mount Royal High School for Girls in the Town of Mount Royal. She then attended Royal Victoria College at McGill University where she took her Bachelor of Arts, graduating in 1940. This was followed by a Bachelor of Library Science in 1941.

During World War II, Ms. Church served as a member of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service (WRENS) from 2 September 1943 to 19 October 1945. She took basic training at HMCS Conestoga in Galt, Ontario, from 2-28 September 1943. She was then transferred to HMCS Shelburne in Shelburne, Nova Scotia, where she served as Base Librarian from 28 September 1943 to 18 July 1944. When she was appointed, there were no library facilities; construction on a one-room library began on 18 October 1943 and opened three weeks later on 8 November. Ruth built up the collection with donations from the Canadian Legion, the Royal Bank of Canada, and the Navy League of Canada.

On 29 June 1944, Ms. Church applied for overseas service. In August she shipped out to Liverpool on the Empress of Scotland and ended up in Londonderry, Northern Ireland, where she served as Base Librarian for HMCS Stadacona from 19 July 1944 to 31 May 1945. The library served sailors on the Newfoundland-Derry convoy. Early in June 1945, the WREN librarians and their books were shipped on the HMCS Penetang to Glasgow. Ms. Church served as Base Librarian for HMCS Niobe at Greenock from 1 July to 19 October, 1945, when she was demobilized with the rank of Petty Officer.

Prior to her demobilization, Ms. Church secured entry to the University of London Library School where she did post-graduate work in the field of specialized libraries from October 1945 to February 1946. While in London, she served as an intern at the library of the Daily Mail.

Ms. Church held three positions (other than her wartime service) as a professional librarian. From 1941 to 1943 she was Assistant Librarian at the head office of the Bank of Canada in Montreal. This library was a sophisticated resource centre. She was the first professional librarian to be hired at Canada House, where she served as Head Librarian from 1946 to 1950.

She constructed, almost from scratch, a library to serve the High Commission staff and members of the public who dropped in. She almost lost her job when she got married to Robert Spencer on 22 June 1948; yet, when she submitted her resignation in April 1950, she was asked to stay on for several weeks until her successor arrived from Ottawa.

Upon her and Robert's return to Toronto, Mrs. Spencer served as librarian for the Canadian Institute of International Affairs from 1950 to 1953. This library was a small but important specialized collection on international relations generally and Canadian foreign policy in particular. She "retired" in August 1953 shortly before her first child, Charles, was born. Two other children followed: Valerie in 1955 and Katherine in 1957. While raising her family, Mrs. Spencer worked part-time at the CIA and established and maintained the library at St. Clement's School that her daughters attended.

Beginning in 1952, Mrs. Spencer accompanied her husband to the United Kingdom and Europe on vacation, on many of his research trips, and on his sabbaticals that were spent in Freiburg, Bresigau, Göttingen, and Berlin. While there, she learned German. She was an excellent hostess, cook, and gardener, made her own clothes, and read widely.

Mrs. Spencer was a polio survivor and later in life suffered from a number of health issues. In December of 1999 she was transferred from Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto to the Perley and Rideau Veterans Health Centre in Ottawa, where she died on xxx, 2000.

Biographical sketch: Ralph Flenley<sup>2</sup>

Ralph Flenley was born in Liverpool England on 2 January 1886. He was educated at the University of Liverpool (MA, 1908) and New College, Oxford University, from which he received a B.Litt in 1910. He immediately began writing; his first two books, published in 1911 and 1916, were Six town chronicles of England, and A calendar of the register of the Queen's Majesty's Council in the dominion and principality of Wales and the Marches of the Same (1535), 1569-1591. In 1913 he was appointed lecturer in history at the University of Manitoba, working under Chester Martin, the first professor of history there. His academic career was interrupted by the First World War, in which he served primarily with the Royal Field Artillery. He was twice mentioned in dispatches, in 1917 and 1918.

Biographical sketch: Ralph Flenley

In 1920, on the recommendation of Professor Archibald Hope Young of Trinity College, he was hired by the University of Toronto, with the rank of Associate Professor, where he taught Modern European and Modern German history courses and historiography. He was promoted to the position of full professor in 1927 and in 1952 he succeeded Chester Martin, who had moved to the University of Toronto in 1928 as chair of the Department. Professor Flenley went on leave for the first six months of 1955, retiring on 30 June, with the title of Professor Emeritus. He was succeeded as head by Donald Creighton. Professor Spencer took over Professor Flenley's History 4b course, "Europe since 1815", and became his heir in the sense that he developed courses on German history.<sup>3</sup> Professor Flenley moved back to England where he resided at Summerhill, Parkgate, Cheshire, until his death on 21 March 1969.

Professor Flenley was a prolific author, with at least twelve books and numerous articles to his credit. Makers of Nineteenth Century Europe, his first major book after his arrival in Canada (the previous year, his slim Samuel de Champlain: founder of New France, had appeared in W. Stewart Wallace's little series of "Canadian Men in Action"), was published in 1927. Modern Europe and the World followed in 1931. Of his several books on Germany and modern Europe, the most popular was Modern German History, published in 1953. It went through numerous editions and reprints in four languages in the subsequent 20 years. Professor Spencer assumed responsibility, at Professor Flenley's request, for the later revisions of this book, producing new editions in 1964 and 1968. The concluding chapters of the third (1964) edition appeared as Triumph and catastrophe, 1939-1945 and The German phoenix, 1945-1963. One of Professor Flenley's last projects was a small book on Anglo-German relations, for which he wrote an unfinished manuscript in 1959-1960.

Professor Flenley also wrote about his adopted country. Before coming to Toronto, he wrote an article about the history of the University of Manitoba. His booklet, Samuel de Champlain: Founder of New France, was published in 1925 as part of W. Stewart Wallace's series, Canadian Men of Action. Three years later, his translated and edited edition of François Dollier de Casson's History of Montreal, 1640-1672, appeared. Essays in Canadian history presented to George M. Wrong on his eightieth birthday, published in 1939, celebrated the long-time head of the Department of History.

Series 2: Travel

Textual, graphic, publications, cartographic, artifacts, 1946-2011, 2.82 metres

This series documents Professor Spencer’s travels, both for pleasure and for academic and other professional purposes. The first of his trips documented here is to New York City in 1946; the last is to Europe in 2011.

The files contain an assortment of flight information, correspondence, itineraries, invitations, notes, postcards, diaries and reports (indicated below where they exist), programmes for a wide variety of events, menus, tickets, passenger lists, booklets, maps, photographs, press clippings, and other memorabilia. The arrangement is chronological by trip. Beginning in April, 1977 and continuing while he was director until his retirement in 1986, a lot of Professor Spencer’s travel was done as an extension of the work of the Centre for International Studies. For the first of these trips, he wrote a detailed report of his activities. The often extensive correspondence in these files ranges from that with Canadian government, consular, and military officials to military officials at NATO and elsewhere in Europe and England, to academic and government personnel in Western Europe. Included are files on Professor Spencer’s involvement with the Atlantic Council of Canada, the Committee on Atlantic Studies, and the Canadian Studies Association.

Some of the folders in this series contain correspondence, postcards, reports, and other items that are well outside the dates of the activities being described.

The photoprints, postcards, and artifacts (pin buttons) have been retained in the relevant files. Files containing receipts only (such as transportation, car rentals, luggage, and accommodation) were not kept and the retention of such material in other files is selective. Fax paper, where present, has been photocopied and the original faxes, most of which had deteriorated badly, have been destroyed.

Additional information about some of these trips can be found in Series 7: Correspondence.

For an itemized listing of this series, see Appendix 1: Series 2: Travel

Series 3: Education

Textual, graphic, 1926-1997 (bulk, 1926-1950), 0.25 metres

Robert Spencer received his elementary, high school, and undergraduate education in Montreal, at Kensington School, the High School of Montreal, and McGill University respectively. The files relating to these stages of Professor Spencer's education contain correspondence, report cards and certificates, term papers, programmes for student dinners and graduation ceremonies, short stories, student newspapers and yearbooks, flyers and other material relating to student organizations, and social activities.

The basic arrangement is by the institutions that Professor Spencer attended, with some files on teacher training during and after his undergraduate years at McGill.

Professor Spencer was on military service in Europe from 1942 to 1946. Once back in Canada, he decided to undertake post-graduate work in history. C.P. Stacey, Director of the Historical Section of the General Staff at Canadian Military Headquarters in London, England, for which Spencer had been working since the beginning of 1946 under the direction of Eric Harrison, could not find funds to assist him. Harrison, who in civil life was a professor of history at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, supported Spencer's applications for scholarships; he was successful in getting the James C. Cumming Fellowship from Trinity College in the University of Toronto. From 1946 to 1950, he also received 'university training' funds from the Department of Veterans Affairs. Spencer spent a year (1946-1947) at the U of T, studying under Professors Ralph Flenley and G.P. de T. Glazebrook and reading widely. His MA thesis, "History of the Fifteenth Canadian Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, 1941-1945", was essentially the study he had written while with the Canadian Forces in the Netherlands in 1945; 1,000 copies of which had been printed by Elsevier in Amsterdam.

Following his graduation from the University of Toronto, Spencer applied to study modern history at Oxford University and was accepted by St. John's College. He received funding from McGill University (Moyses Travelling Fellowship worth $350), the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire (Overseas Scholarship, $800), and part (£30) of a scholarship from the British Council. In September, 1947 he sailed on the Queen Mary to Southampton. He studied under W. Norton Medlicott and A.J.P. Taylor, receiving his B.Litt in 1950. He was then accepted to do a Doctor of Philosophy,

The files relating to his graduate studies contain correspondence, official documents, essays, programmes, flyers, press clippings, booklets relating to Oxford, St. John's College, and the Bodleian Library, greeting cards and other souvenirs of his time at Oxford.

Series 7: Atlantik-Brücke

Textual, 1983-2008, 0.20 metres

Established in 1952 on the initiative of the Hamburg Jewish banker, Erich M. Warburg, the purpose of Atlantik-Brücke (Atlantic Bridge) was to strengthen ties between United States and the Federal Republic of Germany in the post-World War II years. Canada developed its own branch in the 1980s, in an initiative led by Professor Spencer and others. It sponsored annual conferences, alternately between Canada and Germany, which were attended by politicians, officials, business and professional people, journalists, and academics.

The files contain administrative matters (including correspondence with Allan J. MacEachen, Canadian co-chair from 1989-2003), and the preparations for and proceedings of successive meetings. They are arranged chronologically by name of conference.

Series 8: Correspondence

Textual, graphic, 1941-2010, 1.23 metres

The letters at the beginning of this series (in accession B2013-0005) consist of Spencer's letters home while on military training and active duty (1941-1946), beginning with letters sent from Canada (June 1941 – March 1943) and then from overseas (June 1943 – July 1946). Spencer began numbering his letters home on 28 February 1943 when he was about to be stationed at Camp Debert, Nova Scotia. Between then and 23 March 1945 he wrote at least 312 letters home; then started, but did not maintain, a new numbering system.

These are followed by various family letters, including some sent by Spencer (1943-1947), letters to and from third parties, letters to and from his parents between 1946 and 1950, and letters (1946-1948) between Robert and Ruth Church whom he married on 22 June 1948. Bob's letters to Ruth were always mailed to the Office of the High Commissioner at Canada House where she worked. The family correspondence, which included some from Robert's parents (his father, Charles Allan, died on 2 August 1972), his brothers (Colin and Wilson), and later his and Ruth's children (Charles, Valerie, and Katherine) continues until 2010. From the mid-1990s, there are no letters from Ruth.

The arrangement in this section of correspondence is grouped by correspondents but is largely chronological. Fax paper has been photocopied and the original faxes have been destroyed.

The correspondence in accession B2010-0024 relates mostly to professional, not family, matters. It includes Professor Spencer's ongoing correspondence and dealings with various government departments, embassies, consulates, international, national and local organizations other than the COTC and Atlantik-Brücke. For more information, also see Series 9, which includes information on Spencer's extensive roster of speaking engagements, and Series 11, which documents his attendance at various conferences, seminars, roundtables and panel discussions. The arrangement for this section is alphabetical by organization.

Included with the letters are numerous postcards and a few photoprints.

Series 9: Research projects

Textual, 1956-1996, 0.16 metres

This series contains files on research leave grants, research notes and correspondence relating to three separate research projects which were never completed, but led to talks and papers written by Professor Spencer over his career. 'Deutsche Bund: German confederation, 1815-1866' was a project in German history begun in 1959. It led to several papers [see: 1962 (B2010-0024/013(17)); 1967 (B2010-0024/021(24)-(25)); and 1970 (B2010-0024/022(02))]. 'Evolution of the Social Democratic Party of Germany: Foreign policy before and after the Godesburg Programme, 1958-1960', was an uncompleted project begun in 1983. 'Canada and the Federal Republic of Germany' was a projected book length study.

Series 10: Manuscripts and publications

Textual, publications, sound recordings, 1878-2009 [bulk, 1938-2009], 1.24 metres

This series documents the activities relating to the Professor Spencer's writings, including correspondence, draft of manuscripts, offprints, and reviews, arranged in chronological order by date of publication. At the end of this series are files on a number of uncompleted books, for which research notes and partial manuscripts exist. Research notes have been selectively retained, primarily where there is attached correspondence regarding and notes on photocopied material.

Professor Spencer did research and some writing for three books that were never published. For The SPD Godesburg Program, 1959, the research files included photocopies of issues of News from Germany (October 1959 through 1960), many documents from the Archiv der Sozialen Demokartie and other archives in Germany, and hundreds of press clipping from the German press between 1958 and 1961. Photocopies of the newsletters and the press clippings from German archives and other sources have not been kept. For the archival sources, only the covering lists for photocopies have been retained. Published material with annotations and/or with attached notes, correspondence, and bibliographic cards have also been kept. Accompanying them are two audiotapes of interviews done in May of 1983 with Sigmund Miller, Stefan Thomas and Willie Brandt.

For the second proposed book, Deutsche Bund, 1815-1866, a small sampling of material with covering notes from German and Austrian archives has been kept, along with notes on 5" x 8" file cards, and bibliographic cards.

The third project was Professor Spencer's uncompleted PhD thesis, the working title of which was 'Great Britain and Egypt, 1878-1885'. The research files consist of a small selection of British Blue Books for the years 1878-1882. Photocopied material from Foreign Office records was discarded, though the references were kept.

Series 15: Professional associations and organizations

Textual, 1951-2010, 0.35 m.

This series contains correspondence, invitations, programmes, and associated material relating to professional associations and organizations that Professor Spencer belonged to or was in contact with that are not included in the other series. There are numerous files on the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, including correspondence with its director, John W. Holmes; minutes of meetings of the library committee and of the journal advisory (from 1970 the International Journal) committee, which oversaw the publication of International Journal. Elsewhere, there are assessments of manuscripts for grant applications and/or for publishers. Other files document Professor Spencer's involvement with the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE) for twenty years beginning in 1970. Also documented are three of the International Congress of Historical Sciences conferences that he attended between 1960 and 1975.

Professor Spencer volunteered with a number of organizations, including the Bloor Street United Church in Toronto, where he served as an elder for many years, and the Canadian War Museum in Ottawa.

The arrangement is alphabetically by name of group. The files contain a range of materials, including correspondence, notes, memoranda, notes, minutes of meetings, reports, some drafts of manuscripts (especially for the Canadian Institute of International Affairs), flyers, brochures, newsletters and press clippings. Conference files may contain correspondence, programmes, invitations to events, and proceedings.

Series 4: Correspondence

Textual, 1943-1989 [bulk, 1943-1950], 0.20 m.

While the correspondence in this series covers the years 1943 to 1989, most of it centres on seven seminal years in the life of Ruth Church, beginning with her military service as a base librarian with the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service (WRENS) in 1943, through her post-war employment as head librarian at Canada House in London, her marriage to Robert Spencer in June 1948, and her activities up to his receiving his B.Litt from and being accepted for his doctorate at the University of Oxford in 1950. The scattered post-1950 letters are from Ruth Spencer to her parents, letters received from Professor Robert Finch at the University of Toronto, and miscellaneous letters received from friends and relatives.

Ruth Church's correspondence documents in considerable detail her life and activities (with a careful eye for what the censors might not like during the War). The letters received from her parents, siblings, and friends (including those in the Armed Forces) and relatives document civilian life in Canada while providing some insights on life elsewhere in the WRENS.

The arrangement is chronological within each grouping or correspondents.

Series 5: Canada House

Textual, publications, 1946-1950, 0.04 m.

Ruth Church was employed as the head librarian at Canada House in London from September 1945 to March 1950. She was the first permanent librarian hired by the Canadian High Commission and was tasked with building up the library almost from scratch, while serving the demands of the Canadian diplomatic corps and facilitating the use of the library by Canadians based in or travelling through London and interested members of the public.

She nearly lost her job when she married in 1948, as the Civil Service Commission's policy was that once married, she would be supported by her husband and therefore would be replaced by an unmarried librarian as soon as possible. She appealed on the basis that she would be supporting her husband while he was a student at Oxford and was allowed to remain on with her full salary and allowances. In April 1949, her contract was renewed for six-months and, on request, for a further six months until 28 February 1950, which was extended to 31 March until her replacement arrived from Canada. During this period she fought back against the Department of External Affairs' decision to reduce her allowance and the Receiver General's clawback of portions of her salary. Forty-five years later she publicly objected to the closure of the Library and of Canada House and lived to attend its reopening in 1998.

The files in this series contain correspondence, salary stubs, poetry, reports, a manuscript, and articles. The arrangement is by activity, more or less in chronological order.
