Biographical note

Samuel Hollander was born on April 6, 1937, in London England. He grew up in an orthodox Jewish family where at the age of 16 he was sent to Gateshead-on-Tyne for Talmudic training. After returning to London in 1953 and completing "Advanced Level" requirements at Hendon Technical College and Killburn Polytechnic, he entered the London School of Economics. There, he was taught by well-known economists, Lionel Robbins, Bernard Corry and Kurt Klappholz, to name a few. He graduated with a B. Sc. in Economics in 1959 and went to Princeton University where he completed his A.M. and Ph.D. by 1963.

He was recruited by Vincent Bladen to come to the University of Toronto to teach the history of economic thought and received his first appointment as Assistant Professor in 1963, rising through the ranks to Professor in 1970. In 1984 he received the distinction of University Professor, a lifetime honorary title held by only 14 professors at any one given time. Other prestigious honours include being named a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada in 1976 and the First Bladen Lecturer, 1982 and Innis Lecturer, 1982. Hollander's research has been recognized by the support of various fellowships and grants including the Guggenheim Fellowship (1968-69), Senior Canada Council Grant (1969-71), the Killam Senior Research Fellowship (1974-75), Connaught Senior Fellowship (1984-85) as well as numerous Social Science and Humanities Research Council of Canada Grants.

Hollander's diligent research and innovative interpretations of the British classical economists have earned him distinction and recognition internationally in the field of the history of economic thought. Since the publication of The Economics of David Ricardo in 1979, Hollander's works (numerous books and over 100 articles) have been the subject of unprecedented debate among academics. In a review of one of his recent books The Economics of Thomas Robert Malthus, the author, Walter Eltis of Oxford, refers to a possible "Hollanderian approach to the history of economics" (History of Economic Thought Newsletter, No. 59 Winter 1997 pp.20-23). In 1991, a campaign to procure Hollander a Nobel Prize was initiated. Nobel laureate Paul Samuelson of MIT wrote to University of Toronto President Robert Prichard in support of this campaign and noted that "Professor Hollander of your university, by virtue of the depth and breadth of his writings on classical economics, I have to regard as virtual dean of his discipline". At Hollander's request, this endeavour was put on hold until the publication of his Malthus manuscript. In September 1998, in view of his early retirement from the University of Toronto, a two day conference was organized in his honour.

Since 2000, Hollander has been a professor, lecturer, and research associate in the Department of Economics at Ben-Gurion University in Beer-Sheva, Israel. He remains an active member in the political economy community and continues to write extensively. He has recently published The Economics of Karl Marx: Analysis and Application (2008), Friedrich Engels and Marxian Political Economy (2011), Essays on Classical and Marxian Political Economy (2013), John Stuart Mill: Political Economist (2015), A History of Utilitarian Ethics: Studies in Private Motivation and Distributive Justice (2020), and Immanuel Kant and Utilitarian Ethics (2022).

Scope and content

ca. 1954 – 2022

8.18 m (57 boxes) of textual and graphic records, sound recordings, and moving images

These accessions of personal records provide a fairly complete representation of Samuel Hollander's professional life as an academic. The accessions cover his entire career from his student days at the London School of Economics to his retirement from the University of Toronto in 1998 and his appointment at Ben-Gurion University in Beer-Sheva, Israel in 2000. Correspondence, found in the various series gives a rich commentary on his professional endeavours and gives a good overview of the debates surrounding Hollander's work. Lecture notes and taped lectures document how his ideas were taught in the classroom and his Ph.D. files found in Series 5 show his dedication to the teaching and mentor roles for which he is so highly regarded.

The records are arranged in 11 series.

Language: Predominantly English, with some correspondence in French and German

Access: Open, with the exception of the following files:

Series 1: Personal

ca. 1954 – 2022

0.52 m (4.5 boxes) of textual and graphic records

Contains personal correspondence with friends and family, mainly documenting Hollander's achievements including many congratulatory notes from colleagues regarding awards or the publication of his major works.

Correspondence and related documents also document his appointment as University Professor and the campaign beginning in 1991 to procure for him a Nobel Prize in Economics. Also documented are his appointments through the University ranks, his salary, retirement from U of T, and the awarding of grants to support his research including activity reports and grant applications.

This series also contains records collected by Hollander over his academic and professional career, and includes various graduate school lecture notes, school transcripts, honorary degrees, scholarships, two manuscripts given to Hollander by H. D. Dickenson before his death; and a heavily annotated copy of David Ricardo's book Principles of Political Economy which he kept separate from other professional and academic papers.

Filed at the beginning of each accession is his most updated C.V. at the time the records were acquired (see B1998-0027/001(01), B2012-0018/001(01), and B2022-0022/001(01)). There is also a portrait of Hollander, to be found in B1998-0027/001P.

Series 2: Correspondence

1959 – 2021

0.62 m (2.5 boxes) of textual records

This series contains mainly professional correspondence with academic colleagues regarding research and professional activities. It documents the academic discussions and exchange of ideas between Hollander and well-known international economists such as R.C.D. Black, Walter Eltis, T.W. Hutchinson, Mark Blaug, Martin Brofenbrenner, Don Patinkin, Giovanni Caravale, Piero Bruchi, Maurice Daune, Ronald Meek, William Jaffe, A.P. Lerner, Hal Brauner, and R. Dorfman. Among his Canadian colleagues represented are Jack Robson, E.G. West, Scott Gordon, Harry Johnson, C.B. MacPherson, Tom Rymes, and A.M.C. Waterman.

His continued connections to his former universities are documented through his correspondence with Lord Robbins and Michio Morishima of the London School of Economics and with William Baumol and Fritz Machlup of Princeton University. Former students, academics in their own right, are also represented in the correspondence including Margaret Schabas, Evelyn Forget and Sandy Peart.

There is also extensive correspondence with Nobel Laureates Sir John Hicks documenting their collaborative research on Ricardo in the 1970s and with Paul Samuelson of MIT. Other Noble laureates represented include R.H. Coase, Kenneth Arrow, Arthur Lewis and George Stigler.

For a file list, see Series 2 in the Appendix.

Arrangement: Correspondence for B1998-0027 is filed alphabetically with a general alphabetical filing system placed at the beginning of the series and correspondence filed for specific individuals filed thereafter. Correspondence for B2012-0018 is filed with a general chronological filing system to start, and filed alphabetically thereafter.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/002 – /003

B2012-0018/003, /004(01) – (11)

B2022-0022/001(10) – (11)

Series 3: Letters of Recommendation

1972 – 2012

0.06 m (0.5 boxes) of textual records

Correspondence contains recommendations written by Hollander mainly in support of appointments and awards for past students and colleagues. This series documents Hollander's assessment of his peers and gives evidence to the frequency and weight for which Hollander's views were sought on such matters.

For a file list, see Series 3 in the Appendix.

Arrangement: Arrangement is alphabetical.

Access: Closed for 20 years from latest date of file activity.

Boxes: B1998-0027/004(01) – (07)

B2012-0018/004(12) – (25)

Series 4: University of Toronto Administration

1971 – 1998

0.05 m (3 files) of textual records

This series contains correspondence and notes relating to Hollander's appointments and activities on various university committees including the Tenure Appeals Committee, the School of Graduate Studies Graduate Academic Appeals Board and Applications and Memorials Committee and the Department of Economics Chair Search Committee. It also contains records relating to the Department of Economics Graduate Committee, especially relating to various departmental reviews throughout the late 1980s.

For a file list, see Series 4 in the Appendix.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/004(08) – (10)

Series 5: Teaching

1962 – 2012

1.11 m (11.5 boxes) of textual records, sound recordings, and moving images

This series documents Hollander's teaching activities including his undergraduate courses given in Microeconomic Theory (Eco 200), and in the History of Economic Thought (Eco 322 and Eco 2004 at the Graduate level). It consists mainly of lecture notes, reading lists, syllabi, and some class assignments and tests. Lectures for the History of Economic Thought, which formed the basis for his book, Classical Economics, are also documented through a series of cassette taped lectures throughout the fall and winter 1981/82 as well as two video-taped lectures in 1991. There are also some files relating to the first course he taught at Princeton in 1962-1963. Various lecture material delivered outside of the University of Toronto – at McMaster University and the Strasbourg Summer School – is also included.

Also contained in this series are Hollander's files on Ph.D. candidates that he has supervised. Files contain correspondence between student and teacher relating to research, comprehensive examinations, career opportunities etc. There is also some correspondence between Hollander as supervisor and other members of examination and/or thesis committees. Also included are drafts of theses, comments on drafts and general progress of research. These files document Hollander's dedication to and support for the students under his care which has earned him such wide respect among his former students.

For a file list, see Series 5 in the Appendix.

Arrangement: Files correspond to specific courses where possible. Where the course could not be identified, the subject of the lecture is provided.

Access: Open, with the exception of the following files:

Series 6: Professional Activities

1976 – 2015

0.16 m (3 boxes) of textual records

This series documents invitations, lectures and attendance to various conferences, meetings and symposiums as well as activities with regards to professional associations. Files contain mainly correspondence but some also include drafts of papers delivered by Hollander at various occasions. General files on conferences, which contain mainly correspondence, are filed at the beginning of the series followed by files on specific events, arranged chronologically.

For a file list, see Series 6 in the Appendix.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/007(04) – (19)

B2012-0018/007(06) – /008(05)

B2022-0022/003(05)

Series 7: Reviews and Reports to Journals and Publishers

1961 – 2011

0.48 m (4.5 boxes) of textual records

This series documents Hollanders role as editor, referee, and reviewer to academic journals and publishers and is evidence of his expertise in the history of classical economics and economic thought.

For a file list, see Series 7 in the Appendix.

Arrangement: Records are filed by journal title alphabetically.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/008 – /009(23)
              B2012-0018/008(06) – /009
              B2022-0022/003(06) – (13)

Sub-series 7.1 Reviews and reports

1961-2011

0.4 m of textual records

Files contain correspondence, referee reports, comments and criticisms, recommendations regarding publication and drafts of articles by 3rd parties with Hollanders notations. Hollander worked on various editorial boards including the History of Political Economy or HOPE (Duke University), Canadian Journal of Economics, Utilitas (University College, London), Journal of the History Economic Thought, American Economic Review, Research in Political Economy, The Oxford Economic Papers, the Journal of Historical Ideas, the Journal of Political Economy, Routledge Publishing and Research in the History of Economic Thought and Methodology. There is also one file in B1998-0027 relating to his comments as a reader or reviewer for publishers.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/008(01) - /009(23)
              B2012-0018/008(06) - (15)
              B2022-0022/003(06) - (13)

Sub-series 7.2 Informal Reviews and Marginalia

1973 – 2012

0.13 m (1 box) of textual records

This sub-series contains reviews and marginalia for papers that are not subject to formal reviews. Hollander either informally commented on these works or was asked to comment on the articles by certain authors and colleagues, however his comments were not intended to be used by publishers during their review process.

For a file list, see Subseries 7.1 in the Appendix.

Arrangement: Articles are arranged alphabetically by author name.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2012-0018/009

Series 8: Articles and Papers

1961 – 2016

1.10 m (7.5 boxes) of textual records

Throughout the course of his career at the University of Toronto, Hollander published over 100 articles and reviews for academic journals. This series contains a sampling of this accomplishment in the form of manuscript drafts and typescripts, many of which have annotations and corrections, as well as some comments by readers and related correspondence. The series covers the full scope of his career ranging from the publication of his first article in 1961 to drafts of articles for which publication is forthcoming. Also included are two papers which were never published.

For a file list, see Series 8 in the Appendix.

Arrangement: Articles are arranged chronologically.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/011(03) – /013

B2012-0018/010 – /013

B2022-0022/004(01) – (08)

Series 9: Publishing

[ca. 1960] – ca. 2020

0.27 (1.5 boxes) of textual records

This series documents Hollander's publishing activities with respect of his major works (See titles listed below) It contains correspondence with his various publishers relating to such matters as progress of a project, contracts, distribution, sales, translations, royalties etc. Records for many of the works are complete enough to document the project from its initial conception to the decision to cease printing. Additionally, there are interesting reports from the publishers' readers that cover the full range of opinion from high praise to high criticism and reflect the prelude of controversy that ultimately would erupt once a book was published. Also included in this series are copies of published reviews of Hollanders' works.

For a file list, see Series 9 in the Appendix.

Arrangement: Records are filed according to each project with some general files placed at the beginning.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/009(24) – /011(02)

Series 10: Books

1960 – 2021

3.43 m (20.5 boxes) of textual records

This series consists of drafts and research notes relating to each of Hollander's major works which are individually described in the sub-series descriptions below.

For a file list, see Series 10 in the Appendix.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/014 – /027

B2012-0018/014 – /018

B2022-0022/004(14) – /005(09)

Sub-series 10.1: *The Sources of Increased Efficiency: A Study of DuPont Rayon Plants

The Sources of Increased Efficiency: A Study of DuPont Rayon Plants, originally Hollander's Ph.D. thesis, was a microeconomic study of technological change. In his memoirs "It's an Ill Wind...", he remarks that he was advised by his supervisor Fritz Machlup "to undertake one of the forty-odd studies he had listed; and not being interested in any of them, I selected the first: Investment and Innovation. It proved to be an inspired choice." In 1965, the thesis was published with few revisions by MIT press. Reviews of the period reveal that Hollander's propensity for detailed research and analytical thought, which would define many of his later projects, was evident in this, his earliest work.

Included in this series is the final typescript of the final thesis, detailed proposal for research, drafts of chapters, corrections and revisions, notebooks and loose research notes and a bibliographic card index. There is also correspondence relating to the gathering of research, mainly with officials of DuPont.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/014 – 017

Sub-series 10.2: *The Economics of Adam Smith

The Economics of Adam Smith (1973) was Hollander's first major work in his scholarly pursuit to research the British classical economists. Its reception was widely favourable as a major contribution to Smithonian scholarship. Comments from reviews note that the work is detailed and provides a fresh perspective on Smith, especially with respect to The Wealth of Nations. Included is a copy of his first draft along with research notes.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/018(01) – (03)

Sub-series 10.3: *The Economics of David Ricardo

It has been stated that The Economics of David Ricardo (1979) is perhaps Hollander's most enduring legacy to the history of economic thought if only because of the heated controversy it has produced. It has been described by many as counter-revolutionary to the ideas of great economists such as Schumpeter and Sraffa. Common among those who oppose and support Hollander's unique interpretation of Ricardo is recognition that the book, which is detailed in its analysis and research, is an important addition to the debate on this controversial historical figure. Included is the 1st draft of the manuscript, research notes, and notes of material omitted and to be used elsewhere.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/018(04) – (10), /19(01) – (05)

Sub-series 10.4: The Economics of John Stuart Mill. Vol. I & II

The Economics of John Stuart Mill. Vol. I & II (1985) was Hollander's third in the series of studies on classical economists and it is evident in the reviews of the book that the criticisms garnered by Ricardo spilled over into many reviewers assessment of this voluminous work. The introduction to economist A.W. Coates' (Duke University) review places The Economics of John Stuart Mill within the context of Hollander's other works:

"The reviewer of these volumes faces a daunting task, not simply because of their immense size but also because they cannot adequately be considered in isolation. Together with Professor Hollander's earlier studies of The Economics of Adam Smith (1973, pp. 351) and The Economics of David Ricardo (1979, pp.759) they constitute a sustained campaign to establish the validity of singular unified interpretation of the central tradition of nineteenth-century British economic thought. Moreover, if Hollander's main thesis is correct, it has direct implications for our understanding of orthodox (or mainstream) twentieth century economic thought."

He concludes:

"Like the massively ambitious project of which it forms an integral part, Hollander's Mill will leave a permanent imprint in the history of economics." (The Manchester School, September 1987 #3, pp.310-316)

Included is a highly annotated and corrected early draft of the work, parts of a middle draft and a complete final draft.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/019(06) – (07), /020 – /022

Sub-series 10.5: Classical Economics

Classical Economics (1992) was designed as a text book for advanced undergraduate and graduate students and presents many of the ideas Hollander espoused in his books on Smith, Ricardo and Mill. Taped lectures found in Series V formed the starting point of the book. Included are early and final drafts.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/023(01) – (06)

Sub-series 10.6: Ricardo. *The New View: Collected Essays I and The Literature of Political Economy: Collected Essays II

Arranged together in this sub-series are records relating to Ricardo. The New View: Collected Essays I (1995) and The Literature of Political Economy: Collected Essays II (1998) This small sub-series includes notes on revisions and Samuelson's Canonical Classical Model, related correspondence, as well as a 1st draft to his introductory memoir "It's an Ill Wind..." with addendum.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/023(07) – (08)
              B2022-0022/004(14)

Sub-series 10.7: *The Economics of Thomas Robert Malthus

The Economics of Thomas Robert Malthus (1997) is another of Hollander's books in his continued study of the classical economists and like its predecessors, especially Ricardo, is poised to set off debate. Economist A.M.C. Waterman, in his article "Reappraisal of 'Malthus the Economist', 1933-97" (History of Political Economy 30:2 1998 pp 293-334) in which he reviews important literature surrounding Malthus, writes:

"It is quite possible that scholars of the twenty-first century will come to regard Hollander on Malthus as the most important book in the history of economic analysis since Schumpeter 1954... And like most other books Hollander has so far produced, his latest will get its fair share of controversy and disagreement."

Included are various generations of drafts as well as early research and papers on Malthus, John Weyland, and rent.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1998-0027/024 – /027
              B2022-0022/004(15) – (20)

Sub-series 10.8: *The Economics of Karl Marx: Analysis and Application

The Economics of Karl Marx: Analysis and Application (2008) is Hollander's 6th text on the classical economists. The book is an assessment of Marx's Capital and other writings, and addresses Marx's thoughts on the transformation and the surplus-value doctrine, the reproduction schemes, the falling real-wage and profit rates, and the trade cycle. The book attempts to present criticisms that Marx would have encountered during the time of his writing. This sub-series includes a proposal, rough notes taken by Hollander on Marx and his reviewers, reference lists, drafts of chapters, correspondence related to the book and its publication, and some notes and materials that were not included in the final book.

Sub-series 10.9: *Friedrich Engels and Marxian Political Economy

Friedrich Engels and Marxian Political Economy (2011) was derived out of Hollander's extensive research for his 2008 text The Economics of Karl Marx. The book looks at Engels' earlier contributions to Marx's economic analysis and provides background into how Marx developed his theories. The sub-series includes notes and correspondence related to the work as well as two full annotated drafts of the book. The sub-series also contains annotated chapters of The Economics of Karl Marx which were adapted for use in Friedrich Engels and Marxian Political Economy.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2012-0018/016(07) – /018(01)

Sub-series 10.10: *Collected Essays IV (Proposed)

This sub-series consists of correspondence and preliminaries for the creation of another text Collected Essays IV (Proposed 2013) with a working title "Adam Smith on 'Natural Liberty' and the Correction of Market Failure, and other Essays on Classical and Marxian Political Economy.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2012-0018/018(02)

Sub-series 10.11: Immanuel Kant and Utilitarian Ethics

This sub-series consists of a first draft of Immanuel Kant and Utilitarian Ethics (2022) with revisions and comments by Hollander.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2022-0022/005(04) – (09)

Series 11: Student Papers

ca. 1956 – 1964

0.28 m (2 boxes) of textual records

Course notes, essays and class handouts document Hollander's undergraduate and graduate education at the London School of Economics (BSc. Econ 1st Class, 1956-1959) and Princeton University (M.A. and Ph.D. 1959-1963). He attended the lectures of a number of well-known economists including: from LSE, Lionel Robbins, Ezra Mishan, Kurt Klappholtz, Bernard Cory, E.H. Phelps-Brown and Kelvin Lancaster; and from Princeton, Fritz Machlup, William Baumol, R.E. Quandt, Jabob Viner, L.V. Chandler and Oskar Morgenstern. Whenever possible course notes have been identified according to lecturer and subject of the lecture. Arranged roughly by institution and by course.
