Biographical note

Dr. Ursula Martius Franklin was a white scholar, pacifist and feminist who taught in the University of Toronto's Faculty of Engineering and Applied Science. Academically, she is best known for her contributions to engineering and the application of her knowledge in metallurgy and physics to the field of archeology. She is recognized as one of the pioneers of the field of archaeometry, which uses modern material science techniques to investigate ancient artifacts and thus bring greater meaning to archaeological finds. She was responsible for more than a hundred papers and 4 books on a variety of subjects, including engineering, science, physics, feminism, peace, technology, museums, public policy, and faith.

Dr. Franklin was also a very active feminist and pacifist, especially as a Quaker and member of the Voice of Women (VOW). She was involved in countless efforts by the Canadian peace movement: to promote disarmament, diplomacy and peace, and fight against nuclear warfare, chemical and biological weapons, and the fear that promotes warfare in the first place.

Dr. Franklin is also well known for her work on the social and political implications of technology, as synthesized in her 1989 Massey Lectures, The Real World of Technology, which were broadcast on CBC and later published in 2 editions.

Dr. Franklin was born as Ursula Maria Martius on 16 September 1921 in Munich, Germany. Her mother was Jewish and her father a member of an old German protestant family; both parents were academics. She studied chemistry and physics at Berlin University until she was expelled by the Nazis. Her parents were sent to concentration camps and she was sent to a forced labour camp. The family survived the Holocaust and returned to Berlin. She returned to the university after armistice and received her PhD in Experimental/Applied Physics at the Technical University of Berlin in 1948. She then moved to Toronto on receiving a Lady Davis Fellowship to the University of Toronto. She married Fred Franklin in 1952. They became members of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) which remained their spiritual community. They had 2 children: Martin and Monica.

Dr. Franklin worked at the Ontario Research Foundation from 1951-1967, first as a Research Fellow and later as a Senior Research Scientist. She was an Associate Professor (1967-1973), and later Full Professor (1973-1987) in the Department of Metallurgy and Materials Science at the University of Toronto. Dr. Franklin became the first woman to be named University Professor (1984) by the University and became Professor Emerita in 1987. From 1987-1989, she served as Director of the University's Museum Studies Program. She was named a Fellow of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education in 1988 and a Senior Fellow of Massey College in 1989.

Dr. Franklin's scientific and research expertise was called on in many capacities, and always advocated for the social responsibility of the scientist. She was a member of the Science Council of Canada in the 1970s and chaired the study leading to the Council's Report Number 27: Canada as a Conserver Society. She also served as a Member of the National Research Council of Canada and was one of the members of the newly founded Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council.

Dr. Franklin received countless awards and more than two dozen honorary degrees. She was made an Officer of the Order of Canada (1981), a Fellow in the Royal Society of Canada (1988), Member of the Order of Ontario (1990), a Companion of the Order of Canada (1992), and was inducted into the Canadian Science and Engineering Hall of Fame (2012). Her many awards include the Elsie Gregory McGill Award (1987), Wiegand Award (1989), Governor General's Award in Commemoration of the Person's Case (1991), the Royal Society's Sir John William Dawson Medal (1991), the Pearson Medal of Peace (2001), one of Massey College's first Adrienne Clarkson Laureateships (2004), and the Diamond Jubilee Medal (2012). A Toronto public high school, Ursula Franklin Academy, was named in her honour in 1995.

3 books serve as excellent introductions to Dr. Franklin's work and ideas: The Real World of Technology (2nd ed. House of Anansi Press Toronto, 1999); The Ursula Franklin Reader: Pacifism as a Map (Between the Lines, 2006); and Ursula Franklin Speaks: Thoughts and Afterthoughts, 1986-2012 (McGill-Queen's University Press, 2014).

Dr. Franklin died in Toronto, Ontario on July 22nd, 2016.

Note: Fonds consists of records documenting the personal, professional, and public life of Dr. Ursula Franklin, physicist, engineer, materials scientist, pacifist and feminist. Records document Dr. Franklin's early life and career, later employment by the University of Toronto, awards and honorary degrees, teaching, research process and output, publishing activities, travel, service on national scientific boards, work with the CBC, peace work with the Quakers and Voice of Women, as well as other advocacy and activism.

A series of chronological files documents Dr. Franklin's speeches, talks and attendance at a variety of academic and community events. Fonds also includes a significant amount of correspondence with colleagues, family, friends, fellow activists and ordinary citizens, as well as electronic copies of more than 575 pages of surveillance of Dr. Franklin by the RCMP. One series also documents a wide range of matters at the University of Toronto relating to Massey College, Museum Studies, the SLOWPOKE Reactor, and other matters. Yet another series documents Dr. Franklin's involvement with the Ursula Franklin Academy.

Records include day planners, notebooks, correspondence, publications, news clippings, reports, drafts, research data and notes, background material, photographs, sound and moving image recordings and some copies of government documents and records.

See series and subseries descriptions for more detail.

Subseries 1.1: German academic life

1947-1950

0.10 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's early academic life (as Ursula Maria Martius) when she was studying experimental physics at the Technical University of Berlin. Records include academic correspondence, drafts of her PhD thesis, "Die Anregung von Leuchtstoffen mit Gammastrahlen und Röntgenstrahlen verschiedener Wellenlänge" (1948), as well as the academic work of some of her colleagues, including Immanuel Broser, Hartmut Kallmann and R. Warminsky.

Subseries 1.2: Early family life and letters

1938-1950 (predominant 1945-1950)

0.13 m of textual records

1 scrapbook (includes photographs)

Subseries consists of records documenting Dr. Franklin's family and early life. The first file is a scrapbook on the history of the Martius family, dating back to the 15th century. The scrapbook includes a long paper, in German, on the history of the family, as well as captioned photographs and postcards. Series also includes a diary, written in German, from 1945. The bulk of the subseries consists of correspondence sent to and from Dr. Franklin, primarily after she moved to Canada. There are many letters between Dr. Franklin and her family in Germany, as well as letters to friends and colleagues. The subseries concludes with records documenting Dr. Franklin's attempts to sponsor her mother's immigration to Canada in 1949.

Language: The majority of the letters in this subseries are written in German, as is the family history scrapbook. Some letters are in English.

Subseries 1.3: Career and employment records

1973-2008

0.10 m of textual records

1 folder oversized textual records (certificate)

Sub-series consists of records documenting Dr. Franklin's career, and includes biographical information, as well. The subseries begins with records documenting Dr. Franklin's postdoctoral fellowship at the University of Toronto. Records also include her CV, employment records from the University of Toronto, and records relating to her appointment to University Professor, Professor Emeritus, and service as a Trudeau Mentor (2006-2008). Sub-series also includes Dr. Franklin's annual activity reports, which provide a very useful summary of her yearly teaching and research activities as a Professor.

Subseries 1.4: RCMP files

2013 (copies of records dating 1949-1984)

5 digital files (20 MB; .PDF)

In 2013, a researcher studying the Voice of Women requested the RCMP files of many of the women involved in the group, including Dr. Franklin. Redacted copies of the files were supplied by Library and Archives Canada and subsequently shared with Dr.

Franklin. Subseries consists of 5 PDF files (577 pages) documenting the extensive file the RCMP kept on Dr. Franklin from 1949-1984. It is presumed that more recent records were withheld for privacy reasons.

Digital folder: B2015-0005_df001

Access: Open. Contact Digital Records Archivist for access to the digital files.

Subseries 1.5: Photographs

[198-]-[2004?], n.d.

0.03 m of graphic records

Subseries consists of various portraits taken of Dr. Franklin, including photographs of her sitting at her microscope. Subseries also includes a couple family photos.

Access: Open

Boxes: B2015-0005/001P(01)-(12)

Subseries 2.1: Awards

1975-2012
0.22 m of textual records
0.02 m of photographs
12 artifacts
6 folders of oversized textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to various awards given to Dr. Franklin. Records include correspondence, ceremony invitations and programs, acceptance speech notes and texts, letters of congratulations, photographs, certificates, awards and plaques.

Arrangement: Records are arranged chronologically by year, and then alphabetically by award name within each year. Oversized material (certificates) are housed separately. Photographs are listed at the end of each accession.

Series 3: Correspondence

1959-2013

1.21 m of textual records (1 file includes photographs)

1 audio cassette

Series consists of incoming and outgoing correspondence between Dr. Franklin and friends, family, colleagues, government officials, and others. Correspondence pertains to the full scope of Dr. Franklin's life and work, including her academic work, her political activism, and her personal life.

Arrangement: Select correspondence from the 1970s and 1980s was kept alphabetically, and this arrangement has been maintained for that material. The rest of the correspondence was initially disorganized, in loose chronological order. This material was organized into chronological order, by year. Where a significant amount of material from one correspondent was found together, it was put in the alphabetical section. Dr. Franklin had marked some folders 'personal,' and this labeling has been retained in the file title. This does not mean, however, that the other folders may not also contain personal correspondence. In addition, a correspondent with their own 'alphabetical file' may also be found in the chronological files.

See also: Early correspondence can be found in series 1, subseries 2 (Early family life and letters). In addition, correspondence relating to particular functions can often be found throughout the fonds, in the relevant series.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1996-0004/007, B2015-0005/002-/011

See Appendix for a detailed file listing, organized by series and accession.

Series 4: Day planners

1960-2010

1.17 m of textual records

0.01 m of graphic records

Series consists of day planners and organizers kept by Dr. Franklin throughout much of her career. The planners typically contain a list of appointments and activities for each day. Some planners also include notes and recollections. Dr. Franklin often kept extra material tucked into in the planners, which reflect her activities during that given month. This material includes news clippings, letters, event programs, invitations, newsletters, address books, drawings by her children, business cards, and photographs.

Arrangement: Some photographs have been removed and are listed at the end of the series.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1996-0004/007(05)-/013, B2015-0005/011(20)-/012(14), B1996-0004/001P(19)-(22)

See Appendix for a detailed file listing, organized by series and accession.

Series 5: Notes and notebooks

1963-2002, n.d.

0.24 m of textual records

Series consists of various notes and notebooks kept by Dr. Franklin. These notebooks are typically unlabeled/titled, and often undated. The notes they contain pertain to a wide scope of matters, and are not particularly organized.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1996-0004/014(01)-(11), B2015-0005/013(01)-/014(05)

See Appendix for a detailed file listing, organized by series and accession.

Series 6: Chronology files (keynotes, lectures, talks)

1949-2001

3.42 m of textual records

4 folders of oversized records

0.03 m of graphic records (photographs)

Series consists of what Dr. Franklin referred to as her 'chronology files': files kept on various events she attended – most of which she spoke at. Events include academic conferences, guest lectures, government meetings and hearings, public talks to community and religious groups, memorials, press conferences and panels.

Topics covered include science policy, technology, materials science, archaeometry, museums, women in engineering and science, the state of higher learning, the commercialization of universities, education, peace and violence, military research, human rights, feminism, faith, the nature of research, energy policy and the environment, and opposition to nuclear technology.

Records include correspondence, paper abstracts, notes, programs, brochures, posters, proceedings news coverage, transparencies, and contracts. Dr. Franklin typically spoke from handwritten notes, rather than a typed script. Where a transcript exists, the file title includes the word '[transcript]'. Occasionally, 'transcript' denotes the original text/paper created before the talk (ex: for the presentation of academic papers), but for the most case, these are transcripts sent to her after-the-fact by event organizers. Where Dr. Franklin's speaking notes are typed and more coherent/complete, the file title will include the term '[typed notes]'.

Series also includes files kept on declined speaking events, conferences, symposia, seminars, councils and focus groups.

Arrangement: Files are organized chronologically by year. Within the year, files are organized alphabetically by file title – which may begin with the name of the location, the sponsoring group, the event, or the title of the talk. Various talks for which there are few records are kept together in a general file for that year. In some cases there are 2 files for a single event: one in each accession. In the 2015 accession, the date listed is the date of the event, not the date of the records.

See also: Recordings of some talks may be found in Series 18 (Sound recordings) and Series 19 (Moving images). Many recordings have been cross referenced in the file list. Some transcripts of talks may also be found in Series 8, Subseries 1 (Papers) and Subseries 3 (Ursula Franklin Reader).

Subseries 7.1: Berlin

0.07 m of textual records and publications

Series consist of records and publications relating to Dr. Franklin's trip to Berlin as an observer at the World Peace Congress. This was her first trip back to Berlin after her departure in the late 1940s. Series includes a typed article (address to friends), detailing her thoughts on the visit, a notebook, the Assembly program, and books, booklets and brochures collected while in Berlin. Subseries also includes 2 commercial slide collections (produced in 1965): one of Berlin and one of Potsdam.

Subseries 7.2: China

1972-1986 (predominant 1981)

0.38 m of textual records and postcards

0.03 m of graphic records

Subseries consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's trip to China for the International Conference of Early Metallurgy, including background and planning material, correspondence, reports, articles, and notebooks. Subseries also contains booklets, postcards and related to various historical sites and artifacts in China. Arrangement:

Access: Open

See also: Other research records can be found in Series 10 (Research). Researchers may also be interested to know that the Seneca Archives and Special Collections holds a collection of Dr. Franklin's material relating to Chinese culture and history.

B2015-0005/034(05)-/041(07)

Subseries 8.1: Papers

1949-2013

0.52 m of textual records

Subseries consists of papers written by Dr. Franklin for academic journals, magazines and books on a wide range of subjects, including physics, materials science, engineering, pacifism, politics, technology, feminism and education. Also includes some editorials written for newspapers. A list of publications (1950-1980) can be found in file B2015-0005/034(06). Files consist primarily of final copies of articles, although a few files do contain drafts and correspondence.

Arrangement: Files are arranged chronologically by year, and alphabetically within the year

Subseries 8.2: Publishing activities

1980-2013

0.06m of textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's publishing activities. Files include correspondence, requests for work, author agreements, reviews and other records relating to publishing books and articles, rather than the texts themselves.

Arrangement: General files are at the beginning of the subseries. The remaining files are arranged chronologically.

Access: Open

Subseries 8.3: The Ursula Franklin Reader

[ca. 2005]

20

0.40 m of textual records
0.01 m of graphic records

Subseries consists primarily of files assembled for the publication of the Ursula Franklin Reader: Pacifism as a Map (Between the Lines, 2006), with the help of Michelle Swenarchuk and Ruth Pincoe. The book includes edited articles and talks that appear elsewhere in this fonds, but these files have been retained as they illustrate the process of selecting and editing from a large body of work to create a condensed volume of Dr. Franklin's ideas. Records include drafts, notes and correspondence for each chapter. The subseries also includes reviews of the book, as well as correspondence and photographs relating to a number of book launches.

Access: Open

See also: See Series 19 (Moving images) for DVDs of book launches (B2015-0005/032M and /033M)

See Appendix for a detailed file listing, organized by series and accession.

Series 9: Publicity and public education

1970-2008
0.60 m of textual records
2 folders of oversized records

Series consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's appearances in the media, including news clippings on Dr. Franklin and her work and activism; records relating to print, TV and radio interviews and appearances; and work done with CBC Ideas, including her 1989 Massey Lectures, The Real World of Technology. See subseries descriptions for more information.

Subseries 9.1: Media coverage and interviews

1970-2008

0.12 m of textual records

1 folder of oversized records (news clipping)

Subseries consists of records documenting Dr. Franklin's appearance in newspapers, magazines, radio, television, and films. Records include press clippings, correspondence, interview transcripts, contracts, and advertising.

Access: Open

See also: Tapes of interviews, radio programs, television shows and films can be found in Series 18 (Sound recordings) and Series 19 (Moving images). Some newspaper editorials written by Dr. Franklin can be found in Series 8 Subseries 1 (Papers).

Subseries 9.2: CBC programming

1977-2001

0.20 m of textual records

Subseries consists of documentation of Dr. Franklin's involvement with CBC programming – in particular with CBC Ideas.

The first 6 files pertain to a CBC Ideas radio program on technology and democracy in Germany, produced by Max Allen. Preparations for the program began in 1974, and it was broadcast in 1978. The show discusses the issue of Beiufts Verbote, and the denial of employment and tenure to university teachers in Germany who were unwilling to partake in a loyalty oath. Ursula Franklin and Max Allen condensed 25 hours of German interviews by journalist Jurgen Hesse into five 1-hour programs. The German was translated by Ursula Franklin and the files contain texts in both German and English.

Subseries also includes transcripts for a number of other CBC Ideas shows, including Nuclear Peace (1982-1983), Cold War in Canada (1984), At Work in the Fields of the Bomb (1984), Telematics (1984), On the Northern Front (1985), New Ideas in Ecology and Economics (1986), Complexity and Management (1986), the Seven Deadly Sins (1989), and How the World Has Changed (2001).

Subseries also includes records relating to "Nuclear Dynamite," a documentary on Project Plowshare for CBC's "The Nature of Things", including an interview transcript.

See also: See Series 18 (Sound recordings) for tapes of many of these shows. See Series 19 (Moving images) for a copy of "Nuclear Dynamite". See the following subseries for Dr. Franklin's work on her 1989 Massey Lectures, The Real World of Technology.

Subseries 9.3: Massey Lectures: The Real World of Technology

1974-2002

0.28 m of textual records

1 folder of oversized records (poster)

Series consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's 1989 CBC Massey Lectures, The Real World of Technology, which was published by Anansi Press in 1992 (2nd edition, 1999). The bulk of the series documents Dr. Franklin's preparation for the lectures, including notes and drafts. Records also include subject files and general resources on technology, promotional material for the lectures (including a poster), records relating to rights, lecture transcripts, proofs, and correspondence from individuals responding to the lectures.

Arrangement: Files are arranged in loose chronological order.

Access: Open

See also: Tapes of the lectures can be found in Series 18 (Sound recordings), at B1996-0004/040S-/045S and B2015-0005/008S, /020S-023S

Series 10: Research

1934-2010

1.03 m of textual records

0.02 m of graphic records

Series consists of records documenting Dr. Franklin's research activities in physics, materials science, archaeometry, and museums. See subseries for more information. See also: Some research related to early Chinese metallurgy can be found in Series 7, Subseries 2 (Travel: China). Some research material can also be found in Series 16 (Teaching), including data, micrographs and objects repurposed as teaching aids. A yearly summary of Dr. Franklin's activities as an engineering faculty member can be found in her activity reports in Series 1, Subseries 3 (Career and employment records).

Subseries 10.1: General research files

1934-2007 [predominant 1970s]

0.18 m of textual records

Subseries consists of general research files that lack a definite connection to the particular roles/projects represented in the other subseries. These include references and experimental work related to the earliest occurrences of copper, experimental work on beads from the Negev and related correspondence with Prof. Oren of the University of the Negev. Also included are translations of Russian articles on copper finds in the Caucasus.

Subseries 10.2: Ontario Research Foundation and the Royal Ontario Museum

1949-1971

0.26 m of textual records (some containing micrographs)

0.02 m of graphic records

Subseries consists of records pertaining to Dr. Franklin's work with the Ontario Research Foundation (ORF), primarily for the Royal Ontario Museum. Dr. Franklin worked at the Ontario Research Foundation from 1951-1967, first as a Research Fellow and later as a Senior Research Scientist. Her work there centered on the use of microscopic and x-ray data to reveal new information about museum objects. Records include data, micrographs, reports, papers, and correspondence. Papers and research pertain to dating museum objects by metallurgical means, Indian pigments, Chinese pigments and bronzes, and arrowheads.

Subseries also includes 2 photographs of the ORF staff, ca. 1954.

Arrangement: Series is arranged logically, with correspondence appearing first, followed by proposals, reports and articles; research in particular areas; and then raw data.

Access: Open

Boxes: B1996-0004/001P(27)-(28), B2015-0005/045(11)-/047(08)

Subseries 10.4: Collegium Archaeometricum

1978-1987

0.05 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to The Collegium Archaeometricum, an interdisciplinary group of scholars from the University of Toronto and the Royal Ontario Museum engaged in teaching and research in archaeometry. Dr. Franklin served as the Director of the Collegium from 1980-1987. Records include correspondence and planning documents, seminar announcements, and meeting minutes.

Subseries 10.5: Museum of Carthage Project

1967-1999 [predominant 1990-1994]

0.14 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's work with the University of Toronto-Museum of Carthage Project, along with that of the project field director, Vanda Vitali. The group undertook conservation of the Punic Collection at the Museum of Carthage and public education of local Tunisians. The group also developed museum displays that highlighted the conservation work done by the museum on the artifacts exhibited. This work is documented in a film, Carthage: Witness to the Past. Records include background material, documentation of funding from CIDA, collection reviews, reports, notes, exhibition material, and a publication entitled "Salvage conservation at the Museum of Carthage: a manual for artifact conservation." There are also some records relating to the launch of the documentary film.

Access: Open

See also: See the next subseries for files relating directly to Vanda Vitali, who worked on the Carthage project with Dr. Franklin. See Series 19 (Moving images) for related VHS tapes, including Franklin's lectures on the project (B1996-0004/002M and B2015-0005/003M) and the documentary Carthage: Witness to the Past (B2015-0005/005M).

See Appendix for a detailed file listing, organized by series and accession.

Subseries 10.6: Colleagues

[197-]-2010

0.27 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records pertaining to particular colleagues with whom Dr. Franklin worked closely at different points in her career, including Debbie Garfinkel (from the Collegium Archaeometricum and University of Toronto), J.E. Rehder (Senior Research Associate in the Department of Metallurgy and Materials Science, University of Toronto), Moain Sadeq (a Palestinian expert in archaeology and Islamic art history), and Bruce Trigger (archaeologist/anthropologist at McGill). Records include correspondence, copies and drafts of papers, and research records.

The subseries also provides extensive documentation of work done with/by Vanda Vitali, who was one of Dr. Franklin's PhD students and went on to be a colleague. Dr. Vitali worked with Dr. Franklin as a research assistant, and later on the Carthage project. Records include her CV, correspondence, thesis and research notes, and papers and drafts, articles.

Subseries also contains a number of files regarding Zdenka Volavka, Professor in Fine Arts at York University and specialist of African art and artifacts. Files contain correspondence, research material and data, notes, and academic work. Some files also include micrographs and samples.

Arrangement: Alphabetical by last name.

Series 11: Scientific organizations and commissions

1967-1991

0.92 m of textual records

1 oversized folder

1 photograph

Series consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's membership and participation in several national scientific organizations, including the Science Council of Canada, the National Research Council, and the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada. One subseries also documents research and work done for the Ontario Commission of Inquiry on Aluminum Wiring. See subseries descriptions for more detail.

Subseries 11.1: Science Council of Canada: Conserver Society

1967-1991 [predominant 1976-1978]
0.82 m of textual records
1 oversized folder

Subseries consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's activities as a member of the Science Council of Canada (SCC), especially her service as chair of the committee eventually responsible for SCC's Report Number 27: Canada as a Conserver Society.

According to Dr. Franklin, what makes these records particularly significant is their documentation of an attempt by the committee to develop an energy future for Canada by two people of very different philosophical approaches. The committee asked Amery Lovins to develop one such scenario and asked Dr. E. Stoian and others of the Science Council Staff to critique the paper by Dr. Lovins and produce an alternative scenario. Unfortunately the exercise was not as helpful as had been hoped for, largely because of the inability of those critical of Dr. Lovins to clearly state their assumptions. The discussion is documented in the material in the folder B1996-0004/027(11) ("Lovins and Stoian discussions"). It is probably the only still existing documentation of this research attempt.

Underlying the discussions is a fundamental power struggle related to the different approaches to energy policy expressed by the two committees and their respective communities. Bruneau's committee dealt essentially with the problem of possible energy shortages from the supply side: trying to develop a spectrum of energy supplies regardless of environmental or physical costs, or the energy costs of producing energy. The approach of the Conserver Society essentially dealt with modifying the demand side of the problem, noting how much waste and inappropriate usage is created by the availability of cheap energy. However, the power of the energy industry, including the nuclear establishment, weighed heavily on the self-interest of the supply solution. Subseries also includes records of discussion around the council's population report. These led to a minority statement by Dr. Fernand Seguin and Dr. Franklin. Dr. Seguin subsequently resigned on matters of principal from the council. The subseries also includes a file on a 1982 symposium on The Conserver Society Revisited.

Also included is the report on the Conserver Society by the Montreal based Gamma Group. Although the Council and the Group were in touch with each other, the studies proceeded somewhat side-by-side since the work of the Council was primarily policy-oriented. Yet, the public as well as the professional discussions took both documents seriously into account.

Records in this series provide significant documentation of the group and include background material, reports, correspondence, newsletters, media coverage, workshop material, discussion papers, and presentations. The series also includes general subject files on the environment.

See also: Series 12 (Energy and nuclear issues) also documents Dr. Franklin's work pertaining to the environment and energy policy. There is also a file of correspondence regarding the Conserver Society Report in Series 3 (Correspondence): B2015-0005/009(08)

Subseries 11.2: Commission of Inquiry on Aluminum Wiring

1976-1981

0.03 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's preparations for the hearings of Ontario's Commission of Inquiry on Aluminum Wiring, at which she gave testimony. The 18-month Commission, chaired by John Tuzo Wilson, was responsible for determining whether aluminum wiring was safe for residential use. Records include background papers and publications, research notes, copies of government memos and orders-of-council, news clippings, and correspondence from John Tuzo Wilson, concerned citizens, researchers, and others investigating this issue. A later file also includes correspondence and background material relating to a 1981 court case regarding wiring.

Subseries 11.3: National Research Council (NRC)

1983-1987

0.05 m of textual records

1 photograph

This small subseries consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's service as a board member of the National Research Council, and member of the Council Committee on Personnel, Committee on Grants and Scholarships, and Committee on Allocations. Records include a program from the 1932 official opening of the National Research Laboratories, the commemorative issue from the 300th meeting of the National Research Council of Canada. Subseries also includes documentation of the NRC visit to the Defence Research Establishment at Valcartier in 1982, including the visit program, a fact sheet, and a photograph. There is also documentation of the 51st Executive Committee of Council Meeting, in 1983. Lastly, one file consists of correspondence, budget reports, memos, papers, minutes and notes relating to planning and the future of the NRC in 1986-1987.

Subseries 12.1: Subject files and background material

[197-]-[199-]

0.18 m of textual records

Subseries consists of general subject files and background material on the environment, energy issues, and renewable energy. Topics include environmental activism, groups, conferences, publications, and letters; energy research and planning; energy scenarios for the future; broadening Canada's energy supply options; renewable energy; solar energy; and wind energy. Records include publications, newsletters, correspondence, news clippings, and brochures.

Access: Open

Subseries 12.2: Nuclear technologies

1971-2011

0.38 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to a wide variety of activities pertaining to Dr. Franklin's concerns around nuclear energy and technologies. Records include news clippings, correspondence, minutes, copies of government records, submissions, and reports.

Files document a 1996 panel on nuclear waste management, to which Dr. Franklin made an oral presentation and written submission, on behalf of VOW. A number of files pertain to the MOX (mixed oxide fuel) forum, which challenged the disposition of Russian and U.S. plutonium in Ontario generating stations. Other files reflect opposition to Canada's sales of CANDU reactors to other nations.

See also: Records relating to Dr. Franklin's position on nuclear technologies can also be found in the next subseries. Series 13, Subseries 4 (Voice of Women: General) also includes VOW's work with the Cluff Lake community, in their opposition to a proposed uranium mining development in Northern Saskatchewan in the late 1970s. . In addition, 1 file on the University of Toronto's SLOWPOKE nuclear reactor can be found in Series 15, subseries 2 (SLOWPOKE Reactor)

Subseries 12.3: Atomic Energy Control Board

1985-1987

0.04 m of textual records

In 1985, the Mulroney government appointed Dr. Franklin to the Atomic Energy Control Board, a 5-member board that directed an agency of 285 employees "charged with protecting the Canadian public against the consequences of a nuclear mishap." One day later, she was told the invitation had been withdrawn, and the public speculated that it was due to her anti-nuclear stance, of which the government was somehow previously unaware. Records in this subseries provide significant documentation of this controversy, including the original letter of appointment and subsequent correspondence with Pat Carney (Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources), letters from supporters, news clippings, a petition, copies of House of Commons Debates, and background information on nuclear issues.

Subseries 12.4: Voice of Women and Hydro Ontario

[197-]-[199-]

0.02 m of textual records

Subseries documents the Voice of Women's participation in public hearings on the future demands of electricity for Ontario: The Ontario Hydro Demand/Supply Plan Hearings. VOW was the only women's organization as well as the only peace organization asking for intervenor status at the inquiry. Because VOW received funding as interveners, they were able to retain part-time legal counsel and raise a number of issues that would otherwise have not been discussed. Although the inquiry was prematurely discontinued, much of the evidence brought before the panel by the interveners became part of the revised strategy of the next Ontario government.

Subseries also includes more general files on Ontario Hydro, including publications, news clippings, records relating to the sale of tritium.

Subseries 13.1: Quakers: General

1946, 1960-1996 [predominant 1960s-1980s]

0.50 m of textual records

0.01 m of graphic records (1 file)

Subseries documents Dr. Franklin's involvement with the Quaker community, as a member of Toronto Monthly Meeting and as a clerk of the Peace Committee of the Canadian Friends Service Committee (CFSC).

Activities documented include campaigns for disarmament, the Cruise Missile Conversion Project, attempts to set up a Quaker Study Centre at King City, demonstrations at the radar base of La Macaza, briefing the Lamarsh Commission, and many more. Records include minutes from the General Meetings and Peace Committees, material related to various CFSC conferences, gatherings, and institutes, papers and reports, media coverage, public education literature, briefs, newsletters, and correspondence.

The series also includes records relating to the operation by Canadian Quakers of the Peace Centre on Grindstone Island in the Rideau Lakes. This includes documents internal to the Quaker operation and the work of the peace education secretary Murray Thomson. According to Dr. Franklin, much of the work around the Grindstone Island programs was controversial, not only with respect to Canadian public opinion, but also within certain more traditional elements of the Quaker community. Records relating to Grindstone Island include minutes, internal documents, reports, programs and photographs. Included is also Thirty-one Hours, the printed transcript of the 1965 Summer Institute on Non-Violence, which was an exercise in non-violence. The transcript is an important original document of the responses of a pacifist community to a real and life-threatening attack.

Subseries 13.2: Vietnam War

1963-1970

0.18 m of textual records

1 folder of oversized textual records

Subseries documents Dr. Franklin's opposition to the Vietnam War, as an academic, a Quaker, a member of Voice of Women, and as a private citizen.

Records includes files documenting A Quaker Action Group (AQAG) and the Quaker Aid program to North Vietnam, including descriptions of the campaigns by U.S. Quakers to make bridges to the 'enemy' with the assistance of Canadian Quakers. These developments span 1963 to approximately 1968 and include the pilgrimages across the Peace Bridge from Buffalo to Toronto. Files include reports, lists of medical supplies, brochures, press releases, public education literature, news clippings, and a brief to the Committee on External Affairs re: the situation in Vietnam. Records also include internal Quaker correspondence, letters from the Hanoi Red Cross, and a letter from the U.S. Treasury Department, concerned about the movement of funds.

Subseries also includes records relating to the University of Toronto Teach-ins against the Vietnam War (Toronto International Teach-in). Records include programs, session descriptions, lists of seminar leaders, tickets, and newspaper clippings. Files also include background material, including U.S. government documents on the war, American Friends Service Committee public education literature, and a memo on Vietnam by The War Resisters League.

There is also a file on Dr. Vo Thanh Minh, a Vietnamese Buddhist, scholar and musician who wanted to attempt a reconciliation between the people of the North and South. According to Dr. Franklin, he was influenced by both Gandhi and the Quakers he had met, and spent a number of weeks in Canada to prepare himself to enter South Vietnam. He had planned to walk to the North trying to make contact with all those interested in working out a livable solution on the basis of non-violent conduct. He stayed in Toronto at Friends House where the Quakers tried to obtain press exposure for him, one of the few ways they could protect him in his mission. Unfortunately, not only did the mission fail, but to the best of everyone's knowledge, Dr. Vo died in a South Vietnamese jail.

Subseries 13.3: Quakers: Jerilynn Prior and the war tax

1984-1996

0.31 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to two intertwining issues: the court case against Jerilynn Prior (who refused to pay taxes that would fund the military) the more general issue facing conscientious objectors who must pay taxes for future wars.

The legal defence of Dr. Jerilynn Prior was undertaken by Thomas Berger, with whom Dr. Franklin worked closely to establish the Quaker background to their conscientious objection to war and its implications on taxation during peacetime. According to Dr. Franklin, as well, and in parallel to the Jerilynn Prior case, there were intense discussions within the Quaker community, the traditional peace churches and some lawyers and parliamentarians on the feasibility of redirecting the military portion of the income tax from conscientious objectors to designated peaceful purposes. Dr. Franklin was part of several delegations to members of the House of Commons on this issue.

Records include the legal documents by Berger, the judgments, and the responses. Records also include background material, papers and presentations, correspondence, press clippings, and parliamentary records relating to the issue of conscientious objection and efforts to introduce a Peace Bill, which would allow citizens to allocate their tax monies away from military purposes.

Subseries 13.4: Voice of Women: General

1960-2010

0.48 m of textual records

1 folder of oversized textual records

Subseries consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's work with Voice of Women, founded in 1960 by a group of women concerned about the threat of nuclear war. Their first mass meeting was in July 1960 at Toronto's Massey Hall. The group organized an International Peace Conference in 1962 – the first of its kind. Working alongside Muriel Duckworth, Kay Macpherson, and other leading women in the Canadian peace movement, Franklin brought her scientific experience and knowledge to bear on the work done by VOW.

Records primarily document the activities of VOW in Toronto and Ottawa, but also include coverage of Saskatchewan, New Brunswick, Regina, and Victoria.

General background records on VOW include the 1968 VOW constitution, reports, papers, newsletters, public education literature, news coverage, research, correspondence and general publications on the Canadian peace movement.

VOW submitted numerous briefs to the House of Commons and various federal commissions and committees on a wide range of issues, including military trade agreements, chemical and biological weapons, Star Wars, Canadian-American military cooperation, arms exports, disarmament, energy policy, and bilingualism and biculturalism. Records relating to these briefs, including background material, correspondence, drafts, and the final briefs, can be found in this subseries.

Other activities documented include election advocacy, public education events, peace conferences, meetings, exhibits, and organizational matters. There are also several files document VOW's work with the Cluff Lake community, in their opposition to a proposed uranium mining development in Northern Saskatchewan in the late 1970s. Records include correspondence, testimonies, background information and news clippings.

There is also significant documentation of tension in the organization in 1962-1963 around the purpose and priorities of VOW. Records here include results from a controversial opinion poll questionnaire sent to members to gather their opinions, and significant correspondence.

Arrangement: Records are arranged in loose chronological order

See also: The Voice of Women are documented in other series. Material relating to VOW's work on energy policy can be found in Series 13 (Energy and nuclear issues). Material relating to the baby teeth study is kept separately in the next subseries, including 2 files that also address early council politics (B1996-0004/042(05)-(06)). There is also significant material in the Voice of Women fonds at Library and Archives Canada, which is described in a Library and Archives Canada blog post about the Voice of Women fonds.

Subseries 13.5: Voice of Women: Baby Teeth Study

1960-1967

0.20 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records documenting the work done by Dr. Franklin and VOW to test baby teeth for levels of Strontium-90, a radioactive isotope in fallout from nuclear weapons testing. From 1962-1964, women across the country collected milk teeth from their children which were submitted to the University of Toronto's Faculty of Dentistry, together with information on the family's residence, diet, etc. in order to be collected and analyzed for 'natural' radioactivity. According to Dr. Franklin, with the increased radioactive pollution caused by atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons, the composition of children's bones and teeth would be drastically altered because of the presence of the new radioactive pollutants. The milk teeth of children born before the massive atomic testing would provide the last evidence of bone and teeth laid down under pre-radioactive pollution conditions. Unfortunately these teeth were never analyzed as promised. They were shipped to Chalk River, however, those in power decided not to proceed and in spite of many attempts, the teeth were either not analyzed or the results were not made public. Dr. Franklin believes the analyses were never carried out. This was a severe disappointment to Dr. Franklin and members of the Voice of Women who participated in the program. Nevertheless, the work of VOW was a major contribution to the cessation of atmospheric weapons testing.

Records in this subseries include background material on fallout and Strontium-90; the VOW fallout brief background, draft, and final brief; research data, notes, and graphs; public education material; news clippings; and correspondence.

Subseries 13.6: October Crisis and the War Measures Act

1970-1971

0.03 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records documenting Dr. Ursula and Fred Franklin's responses to the October Crisis, and specifically the enacting of the War Measures Act by Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau in October 1970. Records include a brochure, news clippings, press releases and submissions to the government from the Canadian Civil Liberties Association. Records also include telegrams, correspondence and drafts of letters with party leaders, including Pierre Trudeau, Tommy Douglas, and Robert Stanfield, as well as correspondence with the CBC regarding concerns about their coverage of the events.

Subseries 13.7: Chemical and biological warfare

[196-] – 1989

0.20 m of textual records

Subseries consists of records documenting Dr. Franklin's concerns around chemical and biological warfare/weapons (CBW), as a scientist, a Quaker, and a member of VOW. Subseries includes background material on issues relating to the making, testing and use of chemical poisoning.

According to Dr. Franklin, both Voice of Women and some members of the scientific community were interested in clarifying Canada's role in this area of research and development, including the role of universities. These groups were also active in public education to achieve a complete banning of research, production, testing and use of such weapons. There are several recurring issues: one is Canada's official role in the research and testing of chemical weapons, particularly the use, on behalf of her allies, of the test station in Suffield, Alberta. Voice of Women in particular made many attempts to question the use of this large tract of land for testing highly poisonous agents. The Canadian government always responded that their work has been entirely defensive, i.e., the testing of protective clothing for soldiers who might be subjected to chemical attacks. The Canadian government has never attempted to suggest that it could protect civilians or that in fact protection was possible. The storage of small amounts of toxic gases on the grounds of Suffield was never denied, however subsequent inquiries showed that the military found it impossible to actually track down the existing location of their supplies.

Records in this subseries include background material from public sources, as well as unclassified Suffield documents. One of the strong forces in the Canadian scientific community who tried to expose research activities in Canadian universities has been Dr. Arthur Forrer of York University's Department of Biology. He did much to assess the published papers of staff members from Suffield to ascertain their professional expertise so as to deduce the area of their classified activities.

See also: Relevant tapes can be found in Series 18 (Sound recordings), including the visit of VOW members to Suffield; an interview of Ester McCantless by Dr. Franklin regarding work at the Suffield military base and recruitment of her students; an interview with chief of the Defence Research Board and Muriel Duckworth and Ursula Franklin; and Dr. Franklin's recorded thoughts to Ann Gertler re the failure of the Chemical, Biological Warfare Control Workshop.

Subseries 13.8: Other peace work and resources

1961-1989

0.22 m of textual records

Subseries consists of general records and resources related to peace, including papers, background materials, and news articles. Subseries also includes a file on the 1962 Ann Arbor Conference on Arms Control, the first of a series of conferences related to arms control and disarmament sponsored by the Centre for Conflict Resolution at the University of Michigan, held under the guidance of Kenneth Boulding. This conference, which brought together pacifist scholars and military and defence analysts, was very influential in shaping the various approaches of peace research and disarmament activities. The file includes conference summaries, lists of participants and Dr. Franklin's notes.

Series 14: Other advocacy and activism

1965-1990

0.20 m of textual records

Series consists of records relating to a wide range of advocacy and activism undertaken by Dr. Franklin throughout her life, including work against the amalgamation of Toronto, and testimony at the Toronto Board of Education public education hearings. Subseries also includes some background material and correspondence on aboriginal knowledge and rights. 3 files contain public literature distributed by Canada's right wing and hate groups, some direct attacks on the kinds of groups with which Dr. Franklin worked.

Several files pertain to Aleksandra Vinogradov's 1988 complaint of discrimination against the University of Calgary, in regards to her treatment as a candidate for an appointment in its Department of Civil Engineering. Records in these files include letters of support, news clippings, newsletters from The Aleksandra Vinogradov Defence Committee, and a report by the CAUT (Canadian Association of University Teachers') Committee of Inquiry into the matter. Files also contain various legal documents, including judgments and appeals.

Another file relates to the court case of Donna Smythe, a well-known Canadian writer and professor of English at Acadia University, who was charged with libel by Professor Leo Yaffe, professor of chemistry at McGill University, because of an op/ed signed editorial that Dr. Smythe wrote. According to Dr. Franklin, Smythe had commented on a talk given by Dr. Yaffe on "The Health Hazards of Not Going Nuclear". The uranium mining industry in Nova Scotia used this case to try to destroy the citizen's group in which Dr. Smythe and Dr. Gillian Thomas were very active. The group, many of them farmers, was struggling to have uranium mining prohibited in Nova Scotia because of the potential damage to water and soil. In spite of Dr. Franklin's efforts to mediate between Dr. Yaffe and Smythe, the case came to trial before jury in Halifax. Yaffe claimed that Dr. Smythe's article questioned his professional judgment. Dr. Franklin appeared as a witness on behalf of Dr. Smythe. Dr. Franklin relied on documents on academic promotion and tenure used in Canadian universities and could show that newspaper articles, be they positive or negative, were not considered evidence on which to base professional qualifications. The jury ruled that Dr. Yaffe's reputation had not been damaged and that there were no grounds for libel. In spite of this positive verdict, the citizen's group was destroyed for all practical purposes and during the two years prior to the trial had not been able to mount any political action. CBC's Ideas covered some of the trial together with a libel suit against the CBC's Max Allen regarding his program on lead pollution (Give Us This Day Our Daily Lead).

Subseries 15.1: General

1978-2007

0.11 m of textual records

1 folder of oversized textual records

Subseries consists of various records relating to administrative matters at the University of Toronto, including the Peace Studies Program, the IHPST Council, the Confucian Institute, and a proposed Science Policy and Economics Centre.

Subseries also documents various advocacy done at the University of Toronto, including efforts for university divestment from South Africa (1986); opposition to the awarding of an honorary degree to Helmut Kohl (Chancellor of Germany from 1982-1988); work done with Pollution Probe; the National Day of Remembrance and Action on Violence Against Women; the inquiry into alleged discrimination against Dr. Kin-Yip Chun at the University of Toronto; and the teaching assistant strike (1991?). There is also a subject file on the university and research policy (1988-1998).

Subseries also includes 2 photographs: a portrait of Anna Jameson, the first and founding executive secretary for the Institute of Biomedical Engineering, and a photo of Dr. Franklin with Betty Isbister, Michelle Landsberg, Rose Wolf and 2 unidentified women at the 20th anniversary of women at Hart House (1993).

Series 16: Teaching

1957-1995 [predominant 1970s and 1980s]

0.26 m of textual records

4 boxes of graphic records

3 boxes of artifacts

Series consists of records relating to Dr. Franklin's teaching duties. One course in particular is very well documented – JAM 2012: Ancient Materials. According to Dr. Franklin, this course was quite innovative. It was intended for incoming graduate students in Anthropology or Materials Engineering, taught through the School of Graduate Studies. The respective departments – Archeology and Anthropology and Materials Engineering MMS - carried the JAM courses in their calendars. The students worked together in pairs, one student from each discipline. In contrast to the usual joint courses taught by different staff members in a sequence of individually-taught sections, the JAM courses were truly co-taught, i.e. both instructors were present at all sessions, which consisted of annotated conversation between two professionals, linking theory and practice.

Records in the series include course and project descriptions, exam questions, lecture notes, and student projects. The series also includes an extensive collection of teaching aids, including teaching slides (depicting museum/archaeological artifacts), 4 boxes of micrographs, and several boxes of artifacts used in instruction, including various rocks, Chinese spade coins, Canadian coins and stamps, and metal samples.

This series also contains 2 files on students who were supervised by Dr. Franklin.

Arrangement: Records in this series are arranged in logical order, with course syllabi, reading lists and assignments first, then lecture notes and sample data, then student work.

Access: Open

See also: See Series 18 (Sound recordings), for 12 audiotape recordings of the classes (B2015-0005/002S). In addition, a summary of Dr. Franklin's teaching activities can be found in her activity reports in Series 1 Subseries 3 (Career and employment records)

Series 17: Ursula Franklin Academy

1993-1999, n.d.

0.13 m of textual records

0.13 m of graphic records

1 file of oversized textual records

Series consists of records relating to Ursula Franklin Academy, a secondary school operated by the Toronto District School Board and founded in 1995. The school originally operated out of the former Brockton High School and moved to Western Technical-Commercial School in 2002. The school was named after Dr. Franklin and is modeled on her vision of education.

Records in this series primarily document the founding and early days of the school, including correspondence, information packages, and materials from the school opening. Some files relate to the school's ongoing activities, and conversations about education method, as documented in newsletters, event notices, and some correspondence. Series also includes matted photographs from the opening of the school, including photographs of Dr. Franklin with Jane Jacobs.
